NUMBER SIX.

The Longing for Peace—The Mission of M. Drouyn de L'Huys—The Soule Correspondence and Cuba.

No. 8 South Bank, Regent's Park,
London, Friday, April 6, 1855.

Sir: The machinations of Secret Diplomacy at Vienna continue to absorb every sentiment, which you would imagine must fill the breasts of men here under actual circumstances. Fear and hope, expectation and attention, all is turned in that one direction. "The very grief is mute, and the breath stands still. Peace is the cry." These are the expressions I just wrote down for the Atlas, which brings to-morrow the first of my articles, to be continued regularly.

When you reflect upon this all absorbing longing for a settlement upon whatever terms, sufficient or insufficient, honorable or the contrary; when you consider how the nature and aim of the pending war have been denaturalized first, and are thrown perfectly in the back ground, are almost forgotten, now, you cannot help asking, why, by what strange mystery came it to pass, that these men here have drawn the sword, and chosen to put the world in commotion, and England and France to immense sacrifices and sufferings, if they don't care about the pretended object of the war, and like the King of old, having marched up the hill, have no other wish but to march down again! Well may you ask the question, and I have no other explanation to offer, but the words that have unconsciously fallen from the lips of the Foreign Minister of England: "We have been difted into the war"—drifted, that's the word. Staggering forward under the impulsion of the drift, the rope of the alarm bell happened to fall in with their hands—they grasped at it, as drowning men do at anything within reach, but got infinitely alarmed at the tocsin beginning to sound; and from that moment all the magic formula of secret diplomacy has been assiduously employed in arresting the spirits, which unconsciously they conjured up from the deep. Now and then a timid voice (from Tory quarters of course) is yet heard in Parliament, reminding the Ministers of their promises about the curtailing of the preponderance of Russia, securing Europe from further attacks, and England's commercial and naval power in the Mediterranean especially; but the voice is soon silenced by "Don't aggravate us; we have difficulties enough with the Four Points already."

And is public opinion satisfied with this? Certainly not; but it has no control over secret diplomacy. The regulation of the London Cab Taxes, the Sunday Beer act, and such other matters, make up the share of the British Parliament in the management of public affairs. High national concerns are reserved to the competency rule of secret diplomacy. It is impossible this should last long. Reverses, (in full course of happening,) combined with the shock of a political earthquake upon dissatisfied elements, (sure to come from abroad,) will show, I think, that if the English people are slow to move, once stirring, it will be found equally slow to subside.

Sir, whoever converses with the people here and abroad and everywhere, cannot fail to remark how those sentiments that ennoble mankind are not only spreading among the masses, but (due allowance made for individual exceptions on each side) have, in fact, exclusively retired to them; while in those classes which proud arrogance likes to call the higher, those very sentiments are decaying day by day conspicuously. With that striking fact before the eyes, what man could doubt that the future is the people's, and the people's only! Converse with the people on any topic whereupon the inspirations of an uncorrupted heart are the best, the noblest philosophy, and contrast their opinion with the opinions you hear about the same subject in "high quarters;" bring within the sight of the people anything that is apt to electrify a noble heart—mark the sparks of true nobility in their eyes, and contrast them with the hollow dullness, thoughtlessness, feelinglessness on the other side, and then pronounce on which side are the elements of life. Oh, how my soul delights to dwell on this experience! What cheering consolation I derive, in the gloom of my adversities, from these revelations of the sure triumph of democracy! How well deserving this cause is of a boundless self-sacrificing devotion from all honest men!

You will have heard of the French Minister Drouyn de L'Huys having come over to London, and then having hurried to Vienna. It would strike one that the habitual manœuvres of secret diplomacy answer the emergency no more. Ministers turn messengers and ambassadors, and Emperors go "a-visiting." There is a curious report current in high 'Change quarters, about the motive of Drouyn de L'Huys' travelings. The report is that Russia had declared in one of the Conferences not to have the intention to construct any more large men-of-war, (three-deckers,) and not even to replace those sunk to obstruct the harbor of Sebastopol. To this Lord John Russell is reported to have answered: That England does not wish for so much; all that England would ask, is that Sebastopol be made a mercantile port. This declaration is said to have made the impression at the Tuilleries as if England were contemplating a future possibility of a rupture with France, and would therefore not like to see the naval power of Russia too much reduced, regarding her to be the Ally of England in such an emergency. This has caused so much uneasiness at Paris, that the Minister for foreign affairs has been ordered to grease his boots at once, and to settle the business "in propria persona," here and at Vienna.

I do not pretend to be initiated in these mysteries, but so much I know, that in this apparent truckling, good faith there is none on either side; and I know that the Anglo-French entente cordiale is anything but eternal; it may be that when allies and enemies happen to change places next time, it is not France which may find herself isolated. Tilsit may recur again; at all events the consolidation amid this foul play is, that all of them are making the account without the host. Emperors and Ministers are coming and going; nations suffer but do not pass.

While the machinations of secret diplomacy thus continue to overtask the patience of the old world, a striking contrast is offerred by the unreserved publication of the Soule correspondence. You have no idea what effect that makes on these withered quarters of European diplomacy. They feel extremely revolted at this profanation of what they would claim to be held in awe, like some hallowed ground of mystery, never to be thrown open to the eyes of vulgar humanity. Not that the strictures of M. Soule on public men and courtiers at Madrid were matters unusual to them. Such personal "observations" constitute the chief business of European diplomats; but that Mr. Soule has the courage, and the Government of the United States permits, to publish them; that he can have the boldness of appealing to the judgment of the incorruptible tribunal of publicity, between himself and his official chief; that diplomatic transactions of the most delicate nature should not be kept a domain reserved to privileged politicians,—that is the thing which makes them tremble with astonishment and disgust.

Though I claim the honor of amicable relations with Mr. Soule, I certainly am far from sharing in all of his observations about men and matters in Madrid. To me, Christina of Bourbon is neither "a remarkable nor highly gifted personage," except that I take her to be remarkable for immorality, the most scandalous that history can offer, and highly gifted in unblushing effrontery, unscrupulous avarice and sordid vice. However, I cannot sufficiently express my appreciation of the Republican manliness which prompted Mr. Soule to insist on the full publication of his instructions and reports; and I can but say, that this palpable demonstration of the fact, that the management of the public affairs of a great country is by no means incompatible with an unreserved publicity about pending diplomatic transactions, however delicate in their bearing, is an important service rendered to the world, and an honorable tribute paid to the sovereignty of the people—the only legitimate sovereignty on earth; which, however, were but a fiction, if anything could be subtracted from its control.

As to the merit of the case—Cuba—I have already told you my opinion without reserve. From what I read in the diplomatic disclosures, however, two observations occur to me. The first is, that I really see that the idea of purchasing Cuba has been actually entertained by the Cabinet of Washington. I have felt always inclined to doubt the fact; because it either implies an absolute want of practical sense, and of that appreciation of circumstances which are essential to statesmen, or it must suggest an indication of the will to speculate upon the corruptness of those who governed poor Spain. The first is not calculated to enhance the credit for perspicacity of the Administration at Washington; the second is clashingly contrary to that Republican virtue which is the best guardian of Republics.

Another observation I have to offer, has reference to that expression emanating from the Ostend Conference—that "by every law, human and divine, the United States shall be justified in wresting Cuba from Spain." I protest, in the name of Republican principles, against this. The pretended right of conquest is not a right, but an outrage on right. Nobody on earth has the right to decide of the future of Cuba, but the people of Cuba. Without their consent the keeping of Cuba by Spain is oppression—the conquest of Cuba piracy. Wo to the world if the only great Republic on earth were to set the egotistical plea of interest before right, and before those eternal principles without which freedom is an empty word. If that be the case with you, tear to pieces your Declaration of Independence—it is a bitter mockery. And what is the source of this strange anomaly? Why, Slavery! and always Slavery,—that curse and that stain, as I have been saying once before.

Opinion in the Case of Capt. S. W. Downing.

Attorney's General's Office, Washington.

Upon current charges, Capt. S. W. Downing, of the Navy, was tried by court-martial and sentenced to be dismissed, which sentence was approved by the President, and duly carried into effect by the Secretary of the Navy. Upon this, Capt. Downing, in a communication to the Secretary of the Navy, claimed that the proceedings in the case were illegal and void because of the following facts:

The court was composed of thirteen members, six of whom were junior in rank to Capt. Downing, and six of them senior to him, exclusive of the president, who was also his senior. During the trial, Capt. Forrest, one of the members of the Court, was absent two days by reason of sickness. On his reappearing to resume his seat, it was decided by the Court that he could not do so, and the case proceeded to conclusion without the further presence of Capt. Forrest.

Held—1. The dismissal is a consummated fact, whether the sentence was lawful or not; and if the party be restored to the service, it can only be by renomination to the Senate and reappointment.

2. In the present stage of the case, no question on the proceedings of the Court can be raised save that of nullity of sentence for want of jurisdiction.

3. It is doubtful whether the Court had lawful authority to exclude Captain Forrest under the circumstances stated.

4. But his exclusion does not affect the proceedings of the Court with nullity; and if it were an irregularity, should have been taken advantage of before the sentence, or, at least, before the approval of the sentence by the President.

Commissioner Manypenny and Governor Reeder.

The Baltimore American states that Commissioner Manypenny having referred to recent sales of land in Kansas, in which it now appears Governor Reeder was concerned, as disreputable attempts of certain official functionaries to speculate in lands, Governor Reeder replies to the allegation in a tart letter, denying the insinuations of the Commissioner, and in conclusion submitting the following proposition:

Your report on these comments makes, as I have shown, three charges of fraud. If true, I am a dishonest man; if false you are a slanderer. One of us, then, disgraces the office he holds, and it is time to know which is the man. In view of this, I propose to you, Sir, a compact, that if you shall, before the first day of October next, make good these charges to the satisfaction of the President, he shall at once remove me from office; and if you fail, the same penalty shall be meted out to you. You have sown your groundless, inexcusable calumny broadcast over the Union, and now I solicit, I challenge, I defy you to this test. "If there is a spark of manliness in your composition, you will not shrink from it. I desire to goad you to its acceptance. Office, in my estimation, is of less value than reputation [illegible]; and my only fear is that you will decline this offer is based upon the cogent evidence that your estimate of these commodities is in an inverse ratio to mine."

NEW-YORK CITY.

POPULAR EDUCATION.

A NEW SCHOOL-HOUSE.

Dedication of Ward School-House No. 4, and a Dinner to the Female Teachers.

The ceremony of the dedication of Ward School No. 4, Rivington-street, near Ridge, took place yesterday. A large concourse assembled in the upper school room, principally composed of ladies, at an hour much earlier than was set apart according to the advertisement. The room was filled with the female pupils, who are to receive instruction in the new institution, who in the most orderly manner were marshaled and seated with their respective teachers. The platform around the Chair was appropriated to the invited guests, amongst whom were Mayor Wood, Peter Cooper, Chancellor Ferris, Rev. Asa D. Smith, D. D., Judge Campbell, Dr. Hamel, of the Imperial Academy of Sciences, St. Petersburg, John McKeen, Esq., Assistant Superintendent of Schools, &c., &c., &c.

Stephen Brooker, Esq., Chairman of the Board of Trustees, acted as Master of the Ceremonies.

The exercises were opened at 1½ o'clock, previous to which the audience were charmed by the performance of the Misses Clementina and Mary Doughty on the piano.

The first part of the ceremonies consisted in a well-executed piece of vocal and instrumental music—the "Invitation"—by the pupils, under the direction of F. H. Nash. Selections from the Scriptures were then read by Rev. Asa D. Smith, D. D.; after which an appropriate and solemn prayer was offered by Rev. Dr. Ferris. The pupils then sang the chant—"Thy will be done."

The opening address was delivered by Stephen Brooker, Esq., who, in the course of his remarks, made a few statements relative to "Old No. 4."

In 1818, this school was organized on its present site. The speaker went into detail of the services rendered by No. 4 to the cause of education. He said, in reply to the assertion that was made in relation to the expense and splendor of the building erected for the school—that the officers and trustees wished to erect a school which for architectural structure would vie with any in the land. They lived in the Thirteenth Ward, and bore the burthen of the expense incurred in its erection manfully. The fame of No. 4 was extended to the most remote parts. The inhabitants of Europe, and even those of the Sandwich Islands, have exchanged courtesies and productions with their pupils, and perhaps more distinguished men visited this school than any other similar institution of the City.

The Dedication song, composed expressly for the occasion, was next sung by the pupils.

Hon. F. Wood was then introduced. He said that he cheerfully accepted this time of relaxation from public duty, which at times were exceedingly oppressive, with pleasure, not as a public duty, but as a private source of gratification. It was gratifying to him to participate in the festivities of this occasion, and to give them all the endorsement which should be given by the public authorities of the City. He did not intend to deliver any formal address. He was a man of works, not of words. [Applause.] He was proud of the public system of education. His own children were being educated there—and proud as he was of his position as Mayor of this great Empire City; proud as he was of its commercial extent, its thousand spires rising to the heavens and to the service of the Almighty; of its bay, its wealth and magnificence, he was prouder of the public school system of New-York. He congratulated the children on their neat, clean and thrifty appearance, which contrasted sadly with those who daily presented themselves before him in his official capacity. He aptly introduced in his remarks a feeling incident that happened a few days since, well calculated to make an impression on his young hearers. In conclusion, he said that he would always take a deep interest in the cause of education throughout the City, and most especially as regards No. 4.

Hon. W. W. Campbell, Judge of the Superior Court, next delivered an address, in the course of which was elegantly and aptly introduced Goldsmith's beautiful description of the village school.

An original Poem, entitled "A Fragment," was next effectively delivered by Wm. Oland Bourne.

A Solo—"Shells of Ocean"—was executed by one of the pupils, accompanied by another on the piano.

A. Gilbert, Esq., Secretary of the Board of Education, gave a succinct resumé of the general system of Education, of which No. 4 formed a part. He justified the policy of the Commissioners of Education in erecting large school-houses on the score of economy. This position he proved, by comparing the size and expense of the old school-house with the cost and accommodation of the present structure. The saving to the City of New-York in erecting large school-houses was $2 50 for each scholar. The larger schools were better adapted to promote the cause of education than smaller ones,—as they would facilitate the classification of teachers, and enable those whose duty it was to make selections to choose well qualified teachers. He thought that the Trustees and citizens of the Thirteenth Ward had a right to congratulate themselves on the erection of one of the finest school-houses in the City. He then spoke of the comparative cost of the School System between the City of New-York and other cities, and concluded by recommending the same liberal policy on the part of the citizens that has been heretofore pursued.

Dr. F. Tuthill, of the Daily Times, was next introduced. He compared the school-house of to-day with that which the last generation enjoyed—contrasted the outward appearance of the two, and their interior appointments: spoke of the difference in the teachers in the branches taught; and of the text-books. He advocated the liberal policy of the Local Board, in securing the erection of large and commodious school buildings. In conclusion, he read, by request, a couple of well-written and brief essays by a young lady of the school, "On the opening of the new house."

A duet was then sung by the pupils, "I'm going Home."

After a duet by two of the pupils, Wm. H. Neilson, Esq., President of the Board of Education, addressed the audience, principally upon the use of the Bible in the Schools—taking the ground which is esteemed orthodox in our City on this delicate point. He alluded with feeling and eloquent eulogies to the excellent men of the past generation, who in the old Public Society showed their devotion to the cause of popular education.

Mr. Peter Cooper was introduced, and he made a brief but telling speech pertinent to the occasion, with a parting ode sung to the tune of "God save the King," and the benediction from Rev. Dr. Hatfield, the large and delighted audience adjourned. Not all however. The teachers of the Ward, and many invited guests tarried, inspecting the building in all its parts, its noble halls, spacious, well ventilated and well lighted rooms, its convenient desks and seats, its methods of heating, its drawing room, gymnasium and its play-ground.

At 6 o'clock, punctually, the company was led into a large room on the first floor, where a table had been most bountifully spread—a dinner given by the Local Board to the female teachers of the Ward, who mustered some eighty in number. Commissioner Morand acted as President of the evening. Rev. Dr. Hatfield invoked a blessing.

Then all hands fell to, and terrible havoc was made upon cold turkeys, hams, joints, and all that grows, the fruits of the season and much delicious dessert. For liquors, they had the infusion of Young Hyson and Souchong—of the Mocha and Old Java berries and—water enough. Nobody's brother was offended by any one's drinking of wine, and Governor Clark or even the Special Temperance Committee of the Legislature, might have taken freely of what was offered, without inconsistency. The cloth being removed, the President made a statement, and called upon ex-Alderman Miller for a reply. Dr. Miller having proposed the health of the teachers of the Ward, Mr. Demilt, Principal of No. 4, responded. Other brief speeches were made, by Superintendents McKeen and Seton, Mr. Attlebury, Commissioners Shannon and Tappan, Dr. Tuthill, Mr. W. O. Bourne, for and in behalf of the Lady Principal, Mr. H. C. Martin, Mr. H. L. Stuart and others, all of which were received with satisfaction and applause. At 10 o'clock the company parted in excellent spirits, and well disposed to remember the opening of the new School-house in District number four.

The Mayor's Office.

The Mayor's Office yesterday exhibited the usual variety of charges and complaints. Three girls called upon Colonel Ming and stated they had been defrauded by a mantilla maker in Liberty-street, who, they say, is in the habit of employing a large number of hands for a brief time, and sending them away with but a few shillings instead of their week's wages. They desire to expose this trick, so as to deter other girls from applying at her place of business.

From the statement of Mr. John W. Bennett, for Superintendent of Smith, Leckel & Co., it appears that from the First, Second, Fourth and Sixth Wards, 1,222 loads of dirt, and 623 of ashes, have been removed in two days ending with last Saturday.

ANOTHER LIQUOR DECISION.

Corporation Counsellor Dillon on the Prohibitory Law.

Board of Councilmen—Monday, April 23.

The Board met at 5 o'clock, pursuant to adjournment, D. D. Conover, President, in the Chair, and a quorum of members present. After the reading and adoption of the minutes of the last meeting, the Board proceeded to the consideration of the following:

REPORTS.

Councilman Wandell moved a suspension of the rules in order to take action upon the report of the Finance Committee, in favor of confirming leases of docks and slips, and appropriating $20,000 for dredging out slips. This motion prevailed, and the report was accepted and the resolution adopted. COMMUNICATIONS PRESENTED.

From the Corporation Counsel, in relation to the Liquor Law:

Law Department,
Office of Counsel to the Corporation, April 19.

To the Honorable the Mayor and the Common Council:

I have had the honor to receive several communications from the Common Council, the Mayor and other Departments, requesting the opinion of the Counsel to the Corporation upon many questions arising under the late act of the Legislature, entitled, "An Act for the Prevention of Intemperance, Pauperism and Crime," and as many of these relate to the same points, I beg leave to make a general reply in one report.

First, By the Charter of Montgomerie in 1730, it was ordained and granted that "The Mayor of the City of New-York, for the time being, and no other whatsoever, shall have power to give and grant licenses annually, under the public seal of the said City, to all such persons as he shall think fit to license, to keep a tavern, inn, ordinary or victualing house, and to sell wine, brandy, rum, strong waters, cider, beer, ale, or any other sort of excisable or strong liquors within the City of New-York, by retail, or the small measure, and to ask, demand and receive for every such license, such sum or sums of money as may be agreed upon, not exceeding the sum of thirty shillings for each license, all which moneys so received shall be used and applied to the public use" of the Corporation.

The 28th section of the late act of the Legislature, having provided that "no license to sell liquor except as therein provided shall hereafter be granted," the question arises, whether the act in that particular unlawfully violates one of the rights of the City granted by the Charter?

The power to regulate the sale of liquors has been constantly exercised by the Legislature in disregard of the Charter, from the earliest period of the history of the State, after the adoption of the Constitution. By the act of 1801, a Commissioner of Excise was appointed by the State, without whose license no sale could be made. By the acts of 1824 and 1825, the Mayor was deprived of his exclusive privilege, and the Alderman and Assistant of each ward were associated with him in granting licenses, and no license could be granted without the consent of a majority of them, and by the act of 1853, the Councilmen were substituted in the place of the Assistant Alderman.

In the case of Furman vs. Knapp, 19 Johnson 248, an objection was taken to the validity of the act of 1801, as superseding the power of the Mayor, and in violation of the Charter. The Court, however, from the evidence in the case, presumed that the Corporation had given their assent to the act, and did not deem it, therefore, necessary to discuss or consider how far the Legislature, without the consent of the Corporation, might modify or change the Charter.

In the case of the People vs. Morris, (13 Wend., 325,) it appeared that the Trustees of the village of Ogdensburg were, by their Charter, empowered to grant licenses for the sale of liquors, and that by a subsequent act of the Legislature the power was taken away, and it was contended the act was illegal. The Court, however, decided that it was a valid exercise of power on the part of the Legislature; that the power conferred by the Charter was wholly political, and that it was an unsound and even absurd proposition that political power conferred by the Legislature can become a vested right as against the Government in any individual or body of men. If the Charter had granted rights of property, they could not be infringed; but political power (and the right of licensing the sale of liquors is purely such) were public trusts, to be exercised not for the benefit or at the will of the Trustee, but for the common weal. How long it shall exist, or in what manner it shall be modified, are questions independent of the Chartered Corporations, and belong exclusively to the people to determine through the Legislature, in the mode prescribed by the Constitution.

In the case of Satterlee vs. Sutton, in the Superior Court, (Kent's Charter, page 243,) it was contended that the act of the Legislature appointing measurers of grain for the City, and declaring that no other person should measure grain therein was illegal, because it violated the Charter of Montgomerie, which gave the appointment of such officer to the Corporation and their successors forever, with the right to take and receive, all fees, profits and perquisites arising therefrom. The Court, however, decided that the grant to the Corporation to appoint measurers, was a grant of political power, coupled with no interest, save the fees as a compensation for measuring—that the grant was not to be considered in the light of property, or intended as a source of revenue, and that, therefore, the Legislature act was valid, and the Charter so far controlled.

Numerous cases might be cited to the same effect, and it may now be considered well established law, that all grants of political power to Municipal Corporations, are held at the will of the Legislature, who may abolish, abridge or modify them at their pleasure.

The Constitution of the State contains no provision, taking away this power. It simply declares that "nothing in the Constitution shall affect any grants of land within this State, made by authority of the King or his predecessors, or shall annul any Charters to bodies politic or Corporate by him or them made." This, it will be seen, imposes no prohibition upon the Legislature, and was probably inserted from abundant caution, that the Charter of the cities should not be considered as swept away by the Revolution, which had abolished the Crown and substituted a new Government. (10 Johnson R. 240.)

But political powers must not be confounded with rights of property such as the grants of land, the rights of Ferry, the franchise of the streets, and other valuable rights granted to the city by the Charters from the Crown. Such rights are protected by the Constitution of the United States, which regards them as contracts, and prohibits the Legislatures of the States from passing any law impairing their obligation. (Dartmouth College vs. Woodward, 4 Wheaton 518.) Over such rights, the Legislature has no more control than over the private rights of property held by individuals.

The right to license the sale of liquors being a political right, I am, therefore, of opinion that the late Act of the Legislature is not an unlawful invasion of the Charter.

2. Under the existing laws, the Mayor and the Aldermen and the Councilmen of a Ward, or a majority of them, have the sole right to grant and revoke licenses for the sale of liquors. The 28th and 29th sections of the late act, declare that "no licenses to sell liquor, except as therein provided, shall hereafter be granted," and that this prohibition shall take effect immediately. The 2d section, to go into effect on the 1st of May next, provides that citizens and electors may keep for sale and sell liquors for certain specified purposes, upon the performance of certain conditions, approved by the Judges of the Common Pleas.

I am of opinion that no license can hereafter be granted by the Mayor, Aldermen or Councilmen, and that no existing licenses can be extended—the prohibition against granting is equally effectual against the extending of licenses, all of which, by their terms, expire on the 1st May next.

3. The third section of the act provides that "every Justice of the Peace, Police Justice, County Judge, City Judge; and in addition in the City of New-York, each Justice of the Marine Court, and the Justices of the District Court, and the Recorder, shall have power to hear and determine charges and punish offences under the act;" and the question is, whether the Mayor and Aldermen are embraced within these designations. They are, by virtue of their offices, Justices of the Peace (Charter sec. 26,) and this power has not been restrained by subsequent legislation, except in regard to the Aldermen, who, by the amended Charter of 1853, are not allowed to sit as Judges in the Courts of Oyer and Terminer, or in the Courts of General and Special Sessions, but may exercise the power of magistrates in the arrest, bailing, or commitment of offenders. (Laws of 1853, p. 411.) But similar powers, as Justices of the Peace, also belong to Justices of the Supreme Court and the Judges of the Superior Court, who are, like the Mayor and Aldermen, Justices of the Peace ex officio (2 R. S., 704, 706;) and if the duty of executing this act is devolved on the Mayor and Aldermen, it must be shared in like manner by the Justices of the Supreme and Superior Courts. The act, however, specifies the particular officers to whom the power is confided, and, by a well established rule of construction, the mention of one is the exclusion of others.

I am, therefore, of opinion that neither the Mayor nor the Aldermen are empowered, by this act, to hear and determine the charges and punish the offences arising under any of its provisions. People vs. Mayor, &c., 25 Wend., 9; Morrison vs. McDonald, 21 Maine, 551.

Fourth—By the 12th section of the act, certain duties are imposed upon "every sheriff, under sheriff, deputy sheriff, constable, marshal and policeman;" and by the amended Charters of 1830 and 1849, the Mayor is declared to be "the head of the Police Department," of the City, and is required "to exercise a constant supervision and control over the conduct and acts of all subordinate officers."

I am of opinion that the Mayor is not authorized to perform any other duty under the act than to require all policemen in his Department to perform the duties enjoined them by the act.

Fifth—It is important that the Mayor, in his directions to the Police force in his Department, should guard against any infraction of that portion of the law which declares that the first section of the act "shall not apply to liquor, the right to sell which, in this State, is given by any law or treaty of the United States." None of the penalties of the act apply to such liquors, and policemen will not be authorized to seize any such liquors, or the vessels in which they shall be contained. It becomes important, therefore, to inquire what liquors are allowed to be sold by any law or treaty of the United States.

The Supreme Court of the United States, in the case of Brown vs. The State of Maryland, 12 Wheaton, 419, have decided that an article, authorized by a law of Congress to be imported, continued to be a part of the foreign commerce of the country while it remained in the hands of the importer for sale in the original bale, package or vessel in which it was imported. That the authority given to import, necessarily carried with it the right to sell the imported article in the form and shape in which it was imported, and that no State, either by direct assessment or by requiring a license from the importer before he was permitted to sell, could impose any burden upon him, or upon the property imported, beyond what the laws of Congress had itself imposed; but that when original packages were broken up for use or for retail, by the importer, and also when the commodity had passed from his hands into the hands of a purchaser, it ceased to be an import, and became a subject to the law of the State, and might be taxed for State purposes, and the sale regulated by the State, like any other property.

It is very clear, therefore, that the Act does not apply to liquor in the original packages, or to importers who sell them. It will be observed, however, that the Act contains a general exemption of "all liquors" the right to sell which is given by any law in the United States.

Now, the laws of the United States allow all imported articles of foreign commerce to be sold; but the several States may, if they think proper, forbid or regulate their sale, after the articles have been broken up from their original packages and have entered into domestic commerce. If this law had simply declared that it should not apply to imported liquors after they had been broken in bulk and sold by the importers, it would simply have been a provision in accordance with the Constitution of the United States, as expounded by the Supreme Court of the United States—it would have been merely a lawful exercise of the sovereignty of the State—but it goes beyond such a declaration, and provides that it shall not apply to the sale of any liquors allowed by the laws of the United States to be sold, and makes no exception whether such liquors be in the original packages of importation or in the hands of the importer, or subsequent purchasers. If it had been intended to limit the exception to the original packages, or to the importer, it would have so declared. The exception applies irrespective to the form in which, or the persons by whom, or the times at which, the liquors shall be sold, but is general in its terms and applies to all liquors which may, at any time be sold by the laws of the United States.

I am, therefore, of opinion that the police will not be justified in attempting to enforce the penalties of this act against imported liquors, or their sale, by whomsoever made.

But upon the exemptions arising under the treaties of the United States, I beg leave to defer my opinion until I have had more time to examine them than I have been able yet to bestow.

As the penalties cannot be enforced until after the Fourth of July next, no injury can result from the delay.

6. As no parts of the act go into effect until the 4th of July next, except the 2d, 28th and 29th sections before referred to, it is important to inquire whether any penalties are attached to the sale of liquors prior to the 4th of July next. On that day and for offences subsequently committed, the penalties provided by the act apply and not before. And if the penalties under the existing laws be inapplicable, then the sales of liquors between the 1st of May and the 4th July next, are wholly unrestricted. A delicate and important question arises whether this be so, the solution of which must depend upon a close examination of the Statutes on the subject.

The sales of liquors by retail were never free within the City of New-York. By the charters of 1686 and 1730, no such sales could be made without license. The acts of 1801, 1824, 1825 and 1827, after providing for the mode in which licenses may be obtained, declare, in effect, that if any person shall sell liquors, with certain exceptions, without being licensed, he shall be subject to certain penalties. The present act has abolished the licenses mentioned in these sections of the existing laws—such licenses cannot now be granted or obtained—and the question is, whether, by abolishing the license, the act has also abolished the prohibition, or whether the prohibition remains in full force. The present act has nowhere expressly repealed the existing laws—it simply declares that "all acts or parts of acts, and all charters and parts inconsistent with this act are hereby repealed." The existing laws prohibit sales without a license—the present law abolishes the license, or rather substitutes a modified and restricted license, and imposes penalties for its violation. Does the act thereby repeal the existing prohibition? Is the continuance of the prohibition necessarily inconsistent with the act?

Inasmuch as the violations of the existing laws are declared to be misdemeanors, their prosecution belongs to the criminal department of the Government, and the consideration of this question belongs appropriately to the District Attorney, who has delivered to His Honor the Mayor an opinion upon the subject.

Sec. 7. The Common Council by the authority of the Legislature has passed an ordinance establishing extra rents for the use of the Croton Water, and has therein provided that hotels, porter-houses, taverns and groceries shall be charged the extra rates.

It is a general principle that no person can recover at law for any work done, or services rendered, or supplies furnished which he shall have done or rendered knowingly in aid of a business or undertaking illegal by statute.

It does not follow, however, that the occupations specified in the ordinance, will be necessarily engaged in any business in contravention of the statute. Indeed it must be presumed that such portions of their business as are declared to be illegal by the act, will be abandoned. Water is a necessity of life, and is not used in such establishments exclusively in aid of the sale of liquors. No contract for the use of it could be avoided, unless it were clearly proved that it was made by both parties, with the criminal intent to aid in an unlawful traffic. No such intent would ever be entertained by, or could be proved against, the Corporation, and I consider the idea quite chimerical, that any such defence to an action for the use of water could be sustained.

Respectfully submitted, ROBT. J. DILLON.

FIRES.

Fire in the St. Louis Hotel.

Yesterday morning a daring attempt was made to fire the St. Louis Hotel in Chambers-street. One of the night watchmen discovered smoke issuing from a bedroom on the second floor of the building. The fire was soon extinguished, and before much damage had been done. An examination into the origin of the fire made it manifest that a daring and singular attempt had been made to fire the hotel by some portion gaining an entrance into the adjoining dwelling, which has been vacant for a long time.

FIRE IN PEARL-STREET—ACCIDENT.

A fire broke out on the third floor of the store of Messrs. Moller & Orenhaus, Comb Dealers, No. 440 Pearl-street, about 7 o'clock last evening. It was prevented from spreading beyond the floor on which it originated. The damage was considerable—say $1,000. Covered by insurance.

FIRE IN SEVENTH-AVENUE.

A small stable in Seventh-avenue, between Seventieth and Seventy-first-streets, and a horse and harness therein, belonging to Samuel Williams, were destroyed by fire at 10 o'clock Sunday night. Loss $300; no insurance.

As Engine Company No. 21 was turning from Nassau into Beekman-street, on their way to the fire, a young man named Martin Gurall fell from the rope, and the Engine passed over both his legs, injuring him very seriously. He was taken up by his friends immediately, and conveyed into the business office of the New-York Daily Times, where he received such care and attention as could be extemporized. Soon afterwards other friends brought a carriage, in which he was conveyed to the City Hospital. His legs, just below the knees, are very much bruised, but it is thought neither are broken.

The New-York Society Library.

The annual election of this Institution will be held this afternoon, at the Library Rooms, between 1 and 4 P. M. We understand that an opposition ticket, composed entirely of new names, is to be run.

GOSSIP ABOUT COURTS.

Visit of the French Emperor and Empress to England.

Special Correspondence of the N. Y. Daily Times.

LONDON, Friday, April 6, 1855.

We are to have a visit from NAPOLEON III. and his wife. How will they be received? You may rest assured that John Bull does not mean to forget the coup d'état. He will remember that liberty has been suppressed by a coup de main. He will even tell you, in perfect confidence, that LOUIS BONAPARTE is a dangerous, faithless man, not to be relied upon; but then he has used his ill-gotten power in favor of England, and so he must be welcomed as a good friend and a gentleman, just as NICHOLAS was welcomed before he tried to cure the "sick man." In theory he is an adventurer, an outcast, a burglar, a parvenu; but, for all practical purposes, he is the powerful ally and the respected guest of Her Most Gracious Majesty. Accordingly, the Common Council of the city of London are to present him with an address, and to offer him all the honors they can. I wonder if they would not do the same for the Emperor of Austria, who would thus become the successor of KOSSUTH in these city favors?

One thing is sure. NAPOLEON will make the best he can of his position to get ovations. I am told that even the House of Commons will be asked to show their respect and kind regards for the Imperial visitor. Est modus in rebus, and there are many obsequious M. P.'s who, having a share, or a hope of having a share, in some great commercial enterprise in France, will understand a hint for moving that the House should testify their loyalty in some way or other toward the Queen's illustrious guest. A demonstration by Her Majesty's faithful Commons is looked for, at all events. We shall see the form it will take.

However, the Parliament is a prudent and cautious body, and knows that thrones in France are not quite safe from accidents. NAPOLEON may die, as did NICHOLAS, very suddenly, and the next ruler may be the people of France, and the Place de la Concorde may reassume its old name, and become once more called the Place de la Revolution. Such things have happened ere this, in times more peaceably disposed than ours, and may happen again, any day. And it is pretty sure that the successor of NAPOLEON III. will not be very grateful for the excessive honors paid to him on this side of the Channel. These weighty considerations, patent to the honorable members of both Houses, may frustrate the imperial hope for Parliamentary demonstrations in favor of December 2; but the zealous are at work, at all events. The country is counted upon for certain. There will be imperial excursions to several towns, and all the places, thus "honored," will surely come forth with as many addresses. The enlightened constituencies are never late for parades, offering an opportunity for fulsome adulation.

The fact is that many a good man of principles is, just now, very much afraid, lest the spirit of servile adulation shall bring into disrepute the national character. "I am not so much afraid for London, as for the Provinces—said to me a conservative gentleman"—and I should be glad to hear that he will keep to Windsor and its festivities. Court honors, however extravagant—knightings, however ill bestowed, will do no great harm—honi soit qui mal y pense—they will be taken for not more than they are worth. The unmeaning politeness of high and highest life for a man of expediency, but God save us from opportunities for mayors, sheriffs, councilmen, clerks and all the official and officious small fry of provincial towns to display their enthusiasm for "her Majesty's guests." Such demonstrations would invest the reception of NAPOLEON with a character which Windsor could never give to it, and which would go far to [illegible] adverse to despots and despotism." I give you this opinion at length, because it contains the views of that numerous class of politicians of all parties, who are desirous that the Imperial visitors shall receive all the honors dictated by policy, but none more than such.

I need hardly observe that the Empress EUGENIE is the great object of prospective curiosity with the whole fair sex. There will be a rush to see her, and NAPOLEON is surely most glad to have a wife, who, having risen "from the ranks," is certain to be looked for eagerly by all the female population of any country. Why should Mrs. SMITH, not think her daughter, Miss EUGENIE SMITH destined for a position like Mademoiselle MONTIJO's? And then, the comparisons to be drawn between her and the Queen? What a field for feminine conversation. I am rather afraid for poor VICTORIA. She is too much criticised even now, without being compared to any one else. "She looks sulky, ill-natured, rather passé, very common, proud, and a great deal more. She drinks,—she beats her children,—she is awfully jealous, so as to have once locked out Prince ALBERT, who went home a little after 10,—she is most tyrannical to her servants, and boxes their ears," &c., &c. I have heard all these remarks, not once, but a thousand times, not in one rank of society, but in all ranks. What will it be, when she will be looked at, by the side of the smiling, beautiful and young Empress, who has not been a Princess? It is absolutely horrifying to think of the remarks in store for her Majesty. Loyalty has no power over female lips that will talk scandal.

By the bye, the lions of the last drawing-room were the Marquis of CLANRICARDE, who—it is said—has been received very coolly. Sir S. PETO, the fresh Baronet, and the American Consul at Buenos Ayres, (you must find out his name,) who wore "a Court suit embroidered with gold oak leaves and gold laced white cassimere trousers." M. BUCHANAN ought to recommend this gentleman (what is he doing here?) to be appointed as his successor. The Court of England would surely be satisfied with his services. One Consul reminds me of another, and this, General CAMPBELL. I forgot to tell you that our worthy Consul here seems to try to make the best of his time. I have been called upon (several times) to state on the best authority, that the fees and taxes levied at the Consulate on poor sailors are enormous. I know one instance where a shipwrecked sailor, who, by the bye, fought the battles of America, has been taxed one pound—five dollars—for a single affidavit. Now Mr. SANDERS may have displeased a great many persons—and I am not his advocate—but he gave such poor fellows money of his own instead of taking theirs. Nous avons changé tout cela—seems to be the motto of General CAMPBELL.

The Law Case in San Francisco.

BOSTON, Friday, April 20, 1855.

To the Editor of the New-York Daily Times:

There recently appeared in the TIMES an article taken from the San Francisco Herald, headed "Exciting Law Case," to the effect that a suit had been instituted in the name of the receiver of ADAMS & Co. in that city against T. W. PARK and FREDERICK BILLINGS, complaining that they had extorted money from the Company by way of a retaining fee as attorneys for me in a suit there, commenced in my favor, by threatening to disclose facts which had previously come to their knowledge as attorneys.

In justice to the gentlemen named as my attorneys, I cannot do less than to say that the charges referred to are unjust, and calculated to deceive and mislead the public. I am entirely satisfied with the conduct of Messrs. PARK & BILLINGS.

I am reluctant to come before the public with my own wrongs, but when I see the authors of those wrongs attempt to direct public opinion towards innocent parties, I esteem it a duty not to endorse by my silence so great an injustice. ALVIN ADAMS.

THE CATHOLIC CONTROVERSY.

Senator Brooks Multiplying the Awkwardness of his Position.

To the Editors of the Courier and Enquirer:

There is a moral of general utility involved and in process of increasing development in the controversy between Senator BROOKS and myself, which the public will do well to store away in its memory. If I dare make a suggestion for the benefit of the rising generation who are now receiving instruction in the public schools, I would urge the teachers to impress upon the children the possibility of their giving utterance to some falsehood—since to err is human—but to caution them at the same time against the culpability and dangers of attempting to maintain a falsehood, if by any misfortune they should have asserted it. And as an illustration, they might say to the classes—"Just look at the condition of Senator BROOKS, who is actually in this predicament." The Senator begins his unfortunate defence in the Courier and Enquirer of this morning, by the following assertion:

"My statements in the Senate were:

"First—As to the fact of the property owned by JOHN HUGHES—meaning the Archbishop.

"Secondly—As to the value of the property thus held by JOHN HUGHES—meaning the Archbishop.

"Thirdly—As to their transfer from Trustees to JOHN HUGHES—meaning the Archbishop."

He adds: "I am charged with falsehood in these my several asseverations."

It is not true that these were Mr. Senator BROOKS' statements in the Senate. It is not true that Mr. BROOKS has been charged with falsehood in these his several statements. Mr. BROOKS knows that neither of these assertions of his is true. And Mr. BROOKS knows that he shall be my witness to prove that he knows that they are not true.

In his speech in the Senate, after having professed to make himself acquainted with the amount of property held by JOHN HUGHES, in this City, as taken from the Register's office, he goes on to say:

"I suppose its value to be, in New-York alone, not much short of five millions of dollars. So far from this property being held, when in Churches, by Trustees, there are numerous transfers from Trustees to JOHN HUGHES. Beginning with February, 1842, and continuing through 1854, a friend of mine copied fifty-eight entries of as many distinct parcels of property made in the name of land for JOHN HUGHES, all in the space of twelve years!—Not to JOHN HUGHES, Bishop, not to JOHN HUGHES, Arch†Bishop (Sic.) nor to JOHN HUGHES as Trustee of the Roman Catholic Church, but plain JOHN HUGHES in his propria persona. Some of these parcels cover whole squares of land, and nearly all of them are of great value."

[Speech of Mr. BROOKS, delivered in the Senate of New-York, March 6, 1855.]

When Mr. BROOKS attempts in his letter of this morning to substitute another set of statements instead of those, and declares them to be the statements made by him in the Senate, he does that which an honorable man, with the knowledge which he has, would have shrunk from doing. He furnishes, like a broken-down witness under cross-examination, the very testimony which is fatal to himself.

The charge of falsehood was made against his statements as found in his speech, and not against the silly subterfuge of statements as set down in his letter of this morning. Having disposed of this point in which Mr. BROOKS is witness against himself, we must proceed to examine the result of his labors in trying to make up for the two thousand two hundred and seventy-five per cent. which, in his account after his first day's investigation of the Records, left us a balance to be still accounted for, between the truth of his defence and the falsehoods of his speech.

I shall endeavor to allow a great many trifling things to pass to the credit of Mr. BROOKS, so as to relieve him, if possible, from the weight of the burden under which he labors. He begins by alleging that he is borne out in regard to conveyances from Trustees by the fact that the Trustees of St. John's Roman Catholic Church gave me a lease of their property. Now one of two things: A man who has a lease is either the owner of the property or he is not. If he is not the owner, the property has not been conveyed to him in the sense of Mr. BROOKS' statement, that numerous transfers of property were made to me by Trustees; and, in that event, Mr. BROOKS has failed to prove his assertion. He has only proved that I am the tenant of the Trustees of St. John's Church; and, if he thinks this warrants his statement, then a lease, according to Mr. BROOKS, will be equivalent to a deed in fee simple. This is Radicalism, Fourierism, such as has not been put forth before. But besides, it so happens that this St. John's Roman Catholic Church has always been, and now is managed, in its temporal affairs, by lay Trustees, and the Archbishop has never meddled with them, except when they attempted, once or twice, to disregard the discipline of the Diocese in other respects.

The next pretended trustee is Mr. BARTHOLOMEW O'CONNOR, who became legal assignee of one of our bankrupt boards of lay trustees, and who transferred it according to law, and entirely in his civil capacity, as an agent of the law. The Archbishop purchased it at the highest price it would bring, paid its debts, and preserved it for the uses of religion to the congregation by whose exertions it had been built, and by whose lay [illegible] it would have been ruined if the Archbishop had not taken it in hand.

Mr. BROOKS demurs as to the question of conveyance from ANDREW BYRNE, and denies that he duplicated. But he corrects his error in a way which surprises me. He says now that the transfers were made, not by ANDREW BYRNE to me, but by me to ANDREW BYRNE. His words are: "If he, the Archbishop, will look again, he will see that there are two transfers from him" (the Archbishop) "to ANDREW BYRNE." Now, if this be so, it will tell against Mr. BROOKS; and actually increase, instead of diminish the per centage of difference between the truth of his defence, and the falsehoods of his speech in the Senate. He acknowledges, however, that in the case of GEO. WILDER, and AGNES, his wife, he (Senator BROOKS) did duplicate, and counted the same transfer twice; and in reference to this, I am proud to see him acknowledge the truth. He says;

"I owe it to the public to state that a transfer of property was twice cited by me by mistake, because it was so written." Well, well, whether it was so written or not, this little confession will do him no harm.

But, unfortunately, Mr. BROOKS shows scanty signs of penitence; for although he acknowledges that he duplicated, he does not omit to add the false citation to the number of entries. In his preceding letter, the conveyances, according to Mr. BROOKS, amounted to ten. Now strike out from ten, one entry which he duplicated, and let us suppose him correct in stating, as he does in his letter of this date, that two other entries which he had adduced as from ANDREW BYRNE to JOHN HUGHES, were in reality from JOHN HUGHES to ANDREW BYRNE, his ten entries of yesterday are reduced to seven "for to-day." Still, after acknowledging these mistakes, Mr. BROOKS dashes on, and counts his conveyance for to-day as No. 11 instead of No. 8. This is from ZACHARIAH KUNTZ to JOHN HUGHES, and is, no doubt, the ground on which the St. Francis' Church, in Thirty-first-street, now stands.

No. 12, according to Mr. BROOKS, but No. 9 according to his corrected statement, is from JAMES FOSTER and his wife to JOHN HUGHES. The Senator does not say that Mr. and Mrs. FOSTER had been Trustees of a Catholic Church.

No. 13 is SARAH [illegible] to JOHN HUGHES.

No. 14 is GEO. W. HALL, of Buffalo, to JOHN HUGHES.

No. 15 is from JAMES RAE, of Macon, Ga., to JOHN HUGHES.

No. 16. GEO. W. HALL and wife to JOHN HUGHES.

No. 17. G. W. and H. A. COSTAR to JOHN HUGHES.

Here I must pause to point out an instance of the exceeding exactness and scrupulosity with which our Senator describes the dimensions of this particular lot. He says it is between Seventh and Eighth-streets, and is "one hundred feet by two inches." See what it is to be exact. A few more discoveries of this kind will mount up towards the five millions. One hundred feet by two inches!

No. 18. MARY ANNE GAFFNEY, B. GAFFNEY, and A. J. DONNELLY to JOHN HUGHES.

No. 19. JOHN V. WESTERVELT, Sheriff, to JOHN HUGHES.

No. 20. RICHARD KEIN, clergyman, to JOHN HUGHES.

No. 21. GREGORY DILLON to JOHN HUGHES.

Thus closes Senator BROOKS' second day's labor in finding out the entries of property conveyed to me. I shall not examine them minutely, but just take them as the Senator has presented them. I shall only claim that he shall strike out three from twenty-one, as mistakes acknowledged by himself—then there will remain eighteen. But in his speech at Albany he asserted that he had "copied FIFTY-EIGHT ENTRIES OF AS MANY DISTINCT PARCELS OF PROPERTY made in the name of land from JOHN HUGHES." Out of these he has discovered, so far, but eighteen; and he has forty more to find out, if he would support the false statement of his speech. But Mr. BROOKS begins to despair of the Recorder's office, and I shall not trouble him farther at present in regard to it, except to say that I shall hold him accountable for the forty other entries which would be necessary to change the statement in his speech from a falsehood into a fact. He hopes to prove, however, from the Catholic Almanac, what the Register's office fails him in. He says the diocese of Brooklyn has fifteen churches, and insinuates that I, am the owner of them all. The diocese of Buffalo has a hundred churches, and that of Albany eighty-seven, and Mr. BROOKS arranges his defence so as to insinuate that these churches belong to me. I may tell him that all church property in the dioceses of Brooklyn, Albany and Buffalo, belong to the Catholic people of each.

But Mr. BROOKS is determined that I shall be rich whether I will or not, and he enumerates not as from the Register's office, but as from the Catholic Almanac, among other items of property, "The Confraternity of the Rosary, &c., &c.," "The Arch-Confraternity of the Immaculate Heart of Mary." He does not tell us by whom conveyances were made to me of these parcels of property. We may suppose, however, that they are from JOHN DOE and RICHARD ROE and their wives, as found recorded in Lib. 1,579, page, a little short of 5,000,000.

Our veracious Senator next enumerates as my property:

"The Redemptorist Convent, Third-street.

"College of St. Francis Xavier, West Fifteenth-street.

"Community of Brothers, Canal-street.

"Academy of the Holy Infant Jesus, Manhattanville.

"Convent of the Sacred Heart, near Manhattanville.

"Sacred Heart Academy, near Harlem.

"Convent of Sisters of Mercy, Houston and Mulberry-streets.

"Academy of St. Vincent, One Hundred and Seventh-street.

"St. Mary's School, East Broadway."

I must tell Mr. BROOKS that, in this long list of [illegible]

situations, I have not the slightest portion of property, as he will find, if he takes the trouble to examine the records of the Register's office a little more honestly.

In the Senator's next effort I would suggest to him, if he can do it honestly, [illegible] age of difference between [illegible] of truth in his defence and the falsehoods of statements made by him in his speech at Albany, by allowing [illegible] words making up the five millions, a large slice of the real estate which it is generally understood to be owned by WILLIAM B. ASTOR, Esq., and others, I have said, if this can be done honestly. It will save the Senator the trouble of going out of this City, even to the Diocese of Albany, or Buffalo, or Brooklyn.

Let us now come to the arithmetic of the matter. We allowed him for his first day's labor in the Register's office, a discovery of property to the amount of two hundred thousand dollars. For his second, and just to encourage him in making out his five millions, we will allow his discoveries to be worth two hundred thousand more. Let us state it thus:

According to Senator BROOKS in the Senate of New-York, on the 6th of last March, the property of Archbishop HUGHES, in the City of New-York alone was worth $4,750,000

Mr. BROOKS' first day's investigation of the Archbishop's real estate, say	$200,000
Second day's do	200,000
Deduct		$400,000
Balance between truth and falsehood still to be accounted for by the Senator		$4,350,000

Besides this Mr. BROOKS will have to account for the forty missing entries on the Register's books, which he paraded before the Senate on the day and date above mentioned. And I hope he will not give up the Register's Office for the Catholic Almanac, or enumerate any more "Confraternities of the Rosary" among the parcels of my property. But what has become of the whole squares of land which the Senator says were mine? Verily the Senator's case furnishes a moral, and should be held up as a beacon, cautioning youth especially against an attempt to sustain any statement which they know to be untrue. How easy would it have been for Mr. BROOKS to have come out first with the old saw, humanum est errare? How much less humiliating than his present position, if he had said that he had been misled by the false statements of the Trustees' Petition from St. Louis Church, Buffalo; that for a moment the anti-popery mania had taken possession of his will, memory and understanding; that he had been carried away by the passions of the hour, and did not reflect on what he was saying, &c., &c.

His letter of this date shows that in his zeal to make up the difference between truth and falsehood, he does not overlook the smallest things. We have seen already the minuteness with which he has set down that valuable property of mine, which, according to him, is a hundred feet one way by two inches the other. He has discovered, also, that, by a deed in the Recorder's office, I am entitled to a free seat in the Harlem Railroad cars from the City Hall to Fordham, and from Fordham to the City Hall, as often as I choose to ride. It is ungenerous in Mr. BROOKS to quote this, because in his speech he asserted that he spoke of my property in the City of New-York alone, whereas, if he reflects for a moment, he will perceive that this property of a free seat in the Harlem Railroad cars is only partly in the City. It is in this City, from the Park to Harlem Bridge, and all beyond that is out of the City. This is a small matter, but Mr. BROOKS is so nice and scrupulous in his enumeration of my property, that I think he [illegible]

The public will perceive that in all I have hitherto written I have not embarrassed the question by any explanation of the circumstances under which property has been entered in my name. I reserve to myself the privilege of giving a full and candid account of such matters for the information of those who may take an interest in the question, so soon as Mr. BROOKS shall have accounted for the balance of my property constituting the difference, if he is to be believed, between $400,000, for which we have given him credit already, and $4,750,000 which he said my property in the City of New-York alone was worth, on the 6th of last March. But I cannot close the present communication without again directing the attention of the public to the dangers not so much of making a false and foolish statement in a Senatorial speech, as Mr. BROOKS has done, but of persevering, as Mr. BROOKS does, in the attempt to sustain it by new subterfuges.

† JOHN, Archbishop of New-York.

New-York, April 21, 1855.

The Archbishop and the Trustees of the Church of St. Louis.

To the Right Reverend John Hughes, Catholic Archbishop of New-York:

BUFFALO, Saturday, April 21, 1855.

SIR: I was in the hope that the "little card," which I took the liberty to address to you on the 14th instant, in answer to your long letter, would have put an end to all further correspondence between us; but your new attack upon me, jointly with Hon. Senator BROOKS, shows me plainly that I have been mistaken, and that your bile, like the Mount Vesuvius lava, has not completed its eruption. What a wonderful man-of-war you must be, Right Reverend Sir, to undertake to fight two men at a time, and by so doing, imitate that other wonderful man, killing two birds at one throw! Indeed, Sir, from that great propensity of yours for war, I am brought to the belief that you must have mistaken your vocation, and that the command of a regiment of dragoons would have suited you better than functions requiring peaceful and conciliatory dispositions, which you do not possess. These military functions, no doubt, in your taste, would have enabled you to go and tender your services to those poor English and French in the Crimea, standing so much in need of help, and afforded you a chance, by spiritual charges upon the Russians, of acquiring to yourself a great name,—while in your present functions your fiery temper will always be an obstacle to the happiness of that flock confided to your care, or to your making friends and proselytes to our holy religion.

These remarks, rather severe, have been forced out of me by your repeated provocations; and I fear if you continue your attacks upon those who differ from you in that question of temporalities, as you have done of late, that you will get yourself in a bad mess, and be obliged to hire extra pens to help you to get out of it.

As to that miserable interpretation of what I said about the title to our Church property, and which you try to represent as a contradiction, our letters are before the public, and I leave it with them to decide which of us two has been guilty of falsehood. Did I not, after "express words," give a relation of all the means which you employed, for two years or more, to bring us to abandon our Church property? But, Sir, when things are against you you never have time to notice them.

But, Sir, I have not yet done with you, since you have been pleased to provoke me. When during two successive sessions of the Legislature of this State you presented, or caused to be presented, a bill whose only object was to enable you and the Bishops of your Archbishopric to possess all the church and charitable property, and to will it to your successors, what did you mean? When in your circular letter of March 16, 1852, you confessed that you and the Bishops of your Archbishopric were then already owners in fee simple, of nearly all the religious and charitable property belonging to the Catholic religion in the State of New-York, what did you mean? Really, Sir, after such public declaration, you must be bold indeed to contest Senator BROOKS' statement of the value of church and charitable property now in your hands and those of the Bishops, particularly three years after your said declaration, and when it is presumable that it has considerably increased during that time.

Until now, Sir, I have made it a rule to be civil and even respectful towards you; but I am afraid that you have considered that course as the effect of timidity, and that it has emboldened you to be more arch and uncivil towards me, which constrains me to adopt your own language, so as to be upon equal terms with you.

Permit me to give you a last advice previous to my leaving you, for this is the last letter I intend to write, which is to keep cool, and to bear manfully that law of the State upon the tenure of Church property, since you can but attribute it to yourself, and to leave off provoking all those who do not agree with your plans, as you have done of late, if you wish to keep that remnant of consideration which your station requires.

WILLIAM B. LeCOUTEULX.

A PLEASURE TRIP TO BOSTON.

Trial Trip of the New Steamer Commonwealth.

Mid-April, in a backward Spring, is not exactly the time we should choose for a trial trip to Boston, but we forgot the season in reading the generous invitation of the proprietor of the new steamboat Commonwealth, to take a look at Boston, and resolved to go. The Commonwealth is the latest possibility of steamboat enterprise, and she has been running on the Norwich route about a fortnight, a cause of wonder and admiration to all who have had the good fortune to find themselves afloat in her; and, as politicians are now looking among steamboat builders for available Presidential candidates, we shall be rather disappointed if Mr. NORTON, under whose superintendence she has been built, should not receive an invitation from a Legislative Committee to favor the public with his sentiments in regard to the present aspect of national politics.

The Commonwealth is, in most respects, only a little superior to other Sound steamers, being a little broader, a little longer, a little faster and a little more comfortable. But, in some particulars, she has excellencies which are her own, and which will serve as models for steamers to be built hereafter. One of the most noticeable and praiseworthy of these peculiarities, is a semi-circular roof to the upper saloon, which gives an air of spaciousness, elegance, and comfort that is as novel as it is charming. This arched roof extends nearly the entire length of the boat, and the prospect through the long corridor is uncommonly beautiful; the arched roof sits so gracefully on its supports, and its ribs are so light, that it seems self-sustained, like the blue arch above our heads. It is painted with exquisite taste a pure white, for any attempt at ornamentation would mar its graceful and beautiful proportions; and gilding and gingerbread work are used with a sparing and chastened hand in all parts of this splendid vessel. Passengers can know but little from personal observation, of the strength of a ship, or of the power of the machinery, or of the means requisite to insure safety in time of peril, but where everything that meets the eye, and is essential to personal comfort, is satisfactory, it begets a feeling of security in respect to the more essential qualities of a boat which are hidden from the eye, and which none but professional critics are competent to pronounce judgment upon. Judging from such indications, we should say that there was nothing to fear on board the Commonwealth, and from personal investigation we found that every precaution had been taken to guard against danger in the shape of [illegible] fire, explosions, collisions and the assaults of [illegible].

The Commonwealth was commenced at Greenpoint about eighteen months since, and has cost in the neighborhood of $250,000; she belongs to the New London Steamboat Company, who are also the owners of the Connecticut, and runs in connection with the Norwich and Worcester Railroad. The simple figures will tell the story of this superb steamer's capacities and magnificent proportions better than any figures of speech. Her length is 330 feet, breadth of beam 77 feet 6 inches; the upper saloon is 290 feet long, 23 wide, and 15 in height; her tonnage is 1,860; power of engines 1,800 horse, and her sleeping accommodations are for 800 passengers. She has elegant and roomy state-rooms, but none specially decorated for bridal parties.

The passage through the Sound to Allen's Point was altogether delightful, and the invited guests were safely delivered in Boston, in the midst of a good old-fashioned down-east rain-storm, which was very wet, but not in the least disagreeable, at half-past six o'clock. The weather was not favorable to sight-seeing, but the present writer strolled up to the Capitol, after a late breakfast, and looked down upon the embodied majesty of Know-Nothingism, from the stranger's gallery of the House of Representatives, and had the pleasure of hearing part of the debate on the report of the Nunnery Investigating Committee. Afterwards we had the happiness of conversing with one of the Committee, who was a very gentlemanly person, and suggested to him the propriety of changing the name of Boston to Hissville, but he didn't appreciate the value of the suggestion. And, apropos des bottes, we had an opportunity of witnessing the working of the Maine Law in the rigid city of Boston. Drinking is indulged in open bar-rooms and hotel tables, without the least attempt at concealment; and a gentleman, who has abundant opportunities for knowing the truth in respect to this matter, assured us that, though there were but 500 places in Boston where liquor was sold, under the old license system, that since the enactment of the Prohibitory Liquor Law, and the abolition of licenses, these places had increased to the number of 2,800. I could not learn that anybody stood in fear of the new law, which was signed by Governor GARDNER on Friday. But, if the Liquor Law is not enforced, the Sunday Law is; and though you can purchase a glass of brandy on Sunday, you cannot get shaved at any of the barber's shops.

What the Liquor Dealers did not Say.

NEW-YORK, Saturday, April 21, 1855.

To the Editor of the New-York Daily Times:

Your caption, to the letter addressed by the Committee of the Liquor Dealers' Society to Mr. TOMLINSON, states that we denounce the action of the Mayor in regard to the "Cyprians."

The term "Cyprians" does not appear in the letter, nor is there anything therein contained which can be tortured into an allusion to them. Consequently that statement is not warranted by fact or inference.

By publishing this contradiction you will oblige one of the Committee. Yours, &c., N. R. BUNCE.

A New Church.

The Dutch Reformed Church on Fifth-avenue, corner of Twenty-ninth-street, is near its completion. It fronts on Fifth-avenue, and is built of white granite. It is about one hundred and twenty-five feet long, forty feet wide, and about fifty feet high, from the ground to the roof. It is surmounted by a plain spire, reaching up to the height of two hundred and ten feet, and that by a weathercock. At the base of the steeple is a clock, with a face on each side of it. The bell, not yet finished, weighs three thousand and five pounds. On each of the four corners of this church are three small turrets, surmounted with architectural ornaments. It is one of the Collegiate Churches over which Drs. DE WITT VERMILYE and KNOX and Rev. Mr. CHAMBERS are pastors.

Medical News.

The Trustees of the New-York Medical College have elected Dr. HENRY G. COX (President of the Board and Physician-in-Chief to the Emigrant Hospital at Ward's Island) to the Chair of Theory and Practice of Medicine and of Clinical Medicine. Dr. HORACE GREEN had resigned the Chair which is thus filled, and is elected Emeritus Professor. He will hereafter give a special course on Diseases of the Respiratory Organs. Dr. PEASLEE is transferred to the Chair of Physiology and Pathology, and Dr. PARKER to that of Anatomy. The election of Dr. COX is highly honorable to him and is a good move for the College. As a Clinical teacher and thoroughly sound practitioner, we have high authority for saying he has few, if any, superiors among us.

Accidents.

On Sunday morning a lad, residing at the corner of Third-avenue and Forty-second-street, named JOHN SULLIVAN, met with an accident on the Harlem Railroad which will probably result in his death. The boy was walking down the track near Forty-ninth-street, when the cow-catcher of a detached engine caught him by the legs and threw him a distance of ten or twelve feet into the air. The little fellow was terribly bruised, and the attending physician is doubtful whether he will recover.

During an alarm of fire Saturday evening a boy named FREDERICK TAYLOR was crushed between a Croton hydrant and the engine. He was taken to the City Hospital in great agony.

A Better Way.

Alderman HERRICK being waited on at his office yesterday, by a couple of lovers who had always loved so strongly, took them at their word [illegible] the happy couple had pledged their troth each other some time before, but for some cause Mr. RICHER had afterwards declined to recognize the contract. By the Alderman's aid however, Miss DELIAH LUBIN was made Mrs. RICHER, and the suit for breach of promise, begun some time since, falls to the ground.

Church to be Dedicated.

The Baptist church at Harlem is to be dedicated to-morrow. The dedication sermon will be delivered by Rev. WILLIAM R. WILLIAMS, D. D., at 10½ A. M.; also preaching at 3 P. M. by Rev. THOMAS ARMITAGE, D. D. and by Rev. EDWARD LATHROP, D. D., at 7½ o'clock in the evening; in connection with which, services appropriate to the recognition of Rev. WILSON PATON as pastor of the church, will take place at the new church, corner of Fifth-avenue and One Hundred and Twenty-sixth-street, Harlem.

Hope Chapel.

The "Christians," a sect that disavows creeds altogether, have taken Hope Chapel to worship in on the Sabbath.

☞ The annual exhibition of declamation of the University Grammar School will take place to-day at 12 o'clock, in the chapel of the University, Washington-square. The friends of education generally are invited to attend.

An Unknown Man Found Dead.

During Saturday afternoon information was received at the Coroner's office that a middle aged man was found dead under the stoop of the British Consul's house, in Barclay-street. Dr. O'Hanlon held a post mortem examination of the body, and gave it as his opinion that death was caused by congestion of the brain, produced probably by intemperance. A verdict was rendered accordingly. The deceased was about 45 years of age, and when found had no coat on his body. No person could be found who was able to recognize deceased, and a further description of his body and dress may be obtained by calling on Coroner Gamble, who held the investigation.

Loss of Life by Charcoal Gas.

On Saturday afternoon Coroner GAMBLE held an inquest upon the body of JOSEPH SYLVIA, second mate of the schooner Wintemoujeh, who was found dead in his berth on board this vessel, then lying at the pier foot of Fulton-street, East River. The deceased, it appeared, went to sleep in the cabin of the schooner with the doors tightly closed, and the air being very impure, he was found in a state of suffocation by the master of the vessel, who tried all he could in his power to revive him, but in vain. The Jury rendered a verdict of death from inhaling carbonic gas. Deceased was about 19 years of age. He was born in Portugal.

LONG ISLAND.

Mortality in Brooklyn.

The Brooklyn Health Officer reports sixty-seven deaths as having occurred during the week ending the 21st inst., from the following

DISEASES—Apoplexy, asthma, burned, cancer, cancer in stomach, cholera infantum, congestion of the brain, croup, delirium tremens, diarrhea, dropsy, do. heart, fever puerperal, do. typhoid, hemorrhage, do. bladder, mortification, old age, scirrhus liver, ulcers intestines—one each; intemperance, marasmus, palsy—two each; congestion of the lungs, drowned, inflammation of the brain—three each; dropsy in the head, inflammation of the lungs—four each; convulsions, scarlet fever—five each; consumption 12.

Males 35; females 32; adults 34; minors 33—Total 67.

Pickpockets in Church.

Two young men, hailing from New-York, were arrested Sunday evening by the Second District Police, Brooklyn, charged with stealing a valuable gold watch from a Mr. GARDNER while leaving St. James Church, Jay-street, in the morning. A small sum of money was stolen from a lady in St. Paul's Church, on Sunday.

Mayhem.

The Police of the Third District, Brooklyn, on Sunday arrested Robert Brown on a charge of Mayhem, in having bitten off the ear of Patrick Cornell. The accused was committed for examination.

NEW-JERSEY.

Hoboken—Resort to the Elysian Fields.

There was a good deal of resort on Sunday from New-York to Hoboken. The Elysian Fields were visited by several thousand persons. The grounds and walks are in good condition, but the earth has not yet put on its verdure, and the leafless trees look as solemn as in Winter. The refreshment places within the grounds have not been opened, but the public houses in Hoboken did a very good business. The usual display of the charms of nature, as seen in Hoboken in Summer time, and the enforcement of the Prohibitory law in New-York, are expected to cause the outpouring of greater multitudes than usual this season to visit Hoboken.

Firemen's Nominations.

The following are the candidates nominated by the Delegates of the Fire Department of Jersey City, to be voted for by the firemen on Tuesday, the first day of May:

Chief Engineer.—SAMUEL A. FRENCH, unanimously nominated for re-election.

Assistant Engineers.—First Ward, James Gautier and Joseph Strober; Second Ward, James Wallace and James McLaughlin; Third Ward, William Chilvers; Fourth Ward, William Roosevelt and Henry Robertson.

One Assistant is to be elected in each Ward.

The loss by fire last year in Jersey City was $250,000, instead of $2,000,000, as inadvertently stated; and nearly all of this loss occurred before the introduction of Passaic water.

Removal of a Bank.

On Saturday last the Mechanics' and Traders' Bank changed its business location from the building heretofore occupied, in Montgomery-street, to the new banking-house, corner of Washington and Mercer-streets, Jersey City, erected by the Savings Institution, and just completed. The Savings Bank will be removed to the same building on or about the 1st day of May.

MARKET REPORTS.

Markets.... Carefully reported for the N. Y. Daily Times. MONDAY, April 23—6 P. M.

ASHES—Sales of 50 bbls. transpired at $6 12½@$6 18¾ for Pearls, and $5 81@$5 87½ for Pots, ₱ 100 lbs., showing a firmer market.

COFFEE—The market is less active but rules pretty firm, sales having been made of 50 bags Maracaibo at 11½c.; 150 Rio at 11c.@11½c.; 50 St. Domingo at 9½c.; and 250 Stained do., on terms not allowed to be published.

COTTON—Is in rather better request at steadier prices. The day's sales have been pretty large, and factors have found it easier to obtain our quotations:

NEW-YORK CLASSIFICATION.

	Upland.	Florida.	Mobile.	New-Orleans and Texas.

Middling	9⅞	9⅞	9⅞	9⅞
Middling Fair	10½	10½	11	11
Fair	10¾	10¾	11¼	11¼

FLOUR AND MEAL—State and Western brands are in poor supply and fair demand at buoyant rates. The steamer's accounts have had but little influence upon the market. The Eastern and local inquiry is the briskest, and runs mainly on good common qualities, these being the most suitable in price to purchasers. The medium and finer descriptions are rather sparingly dealt in, owing to their relative scarcity and dearness. The day's sales embrace 4,200 bbls. within our range:

Ordinary State	$10 00 @$10 12½
Straight State	10 12½@10 25
Favorite State	10 25 @10 37½
Mixed Western	10 31 @10 50
Common to Good Indiana and Michigan	10 43 @10 62½
Fancy Michigan	10 50 @10 62½
Common to Good Ohio	10 50 @10 75
Fancy Ohio	10 62 @10 75
Extra Ohio	10 75 @12 25
Extra Indiana and Michigan	10 75 @11 50
Fancy Genesee	10 62 @10 87½
Extra Genesee	11 00 @13 00

Canadian is improving. There were 2,000 bbls. sold at $10 50@$11 50 ₱ bbl. Southern is actively sought after at rising prices. There is but little offering. The day's sales add up 1,000 bbls. at $11@$11 75 for mixed to favorite, and $12 75@$13 for fancy and extra ₱ bbl. Rye Flour is rare, and needed at $7@$8 50 ₱ bbl., an advance. Corn Meal is less freely offered, and is in moderate request at $5 for Jersey, and $5 50 for Brandywine, ₱ bbl.

GRAIN—Wheat is almost out of market, and prices are unsettled. Millers are much in need of supplies. Sales have transpired, since our last, of a parcel of prime Genesee white, deliverable next month, at $2 80; and a small lot of Michigan white, on the spot, at $2 75 ₱ bushel. We noticed but one sample on 'Change, this forenoon—being that of a parcel of 10,000 bushels Upper Lake, to arrive at Buffalo immediately after the opening of Navigation. It was not sold, however. Rye is in fair request and is very firm—5,000 bushels Northern changed hands at $1 47, delivered here and $1 50, delivered at Hudson, ₱ bushel. Barley and Barley Malt are essentially unchanged. Oats continue scarce and quiet, but are stiffly held at 68c.@70c. for State and Western, and 70c.@81c. for Southern and Jersey ₱ bushel. Corn is scarce and wanted at full rates. The day's sales include 23,000 bushels Southern White and Yellow at $1 13@$1 14½, and Jersey Yellow at $1 13@$1 15, from store and delivered. Some transactions in Western mixed, for future delivery, were reported, but they were not authenticated, excepting in the case of a parcel (comprised in the aforementioned quantity) of 10,000 bushels, deliverable in June, at 95c. ₱ bushel. The prices mentioned above are, we believe, the highest that have been realized in this market since the famine year of 1847, when, on the 12th of June, Corn was selling freely at, according to quality, from $1 14@$1 20 ₱ bushel,—but this enormously high range was sustained for only a few days, as during the following week the article fell to $1 ₱ bushel, and did not afterwards permanently rise much, if anything, above this figure. Then it was the prevalence of a great demand that had most to do in making it so dear; now, the enhanced value mainly results from the extreme scantiness of our supplies. Were there anything of a brisk export inquiry now in existence, it would be hard to prevent the upward movement of prices. But as there is not, the firmness and buoyancy of the market, in a measure, depend upon the freedom with which the moderate stocks needed by home dealers can be procured.

HAY—Sales of 400 bales River were effected at $1 06¼ for shipment, and $1 18¾@$1 25 for local use, ₱ 100 lbs.

HOPS—Are dull and heavy, at 15c.@21c. ₱ lb. The amount in market is not large, but distillers are not inclined to buy much, and there is but little inquiry for export.

IRON—Scotch Pig is quiet, but steady, with small sales, at $29@$30 ₱ ton, usual terms. Nothing doing in other kinds worth speaking of.

LATHS—Eastern are brisker, but cheaper,—being more freely sold, mostly at $2, cash, ₱ thousand.

LEAD—Holders are less anxious to realize, but the demand is limited, and there is no change of account in prices.

LIME—Rockland is saleable and steady, at $1 for Common, and $1 12½ for Lump, ₱ bbl.

MOLASSES—We have only to notice sales of 160 bbls. New-Orleans at 28c.@29c., and small lots of clayed Cuba at 23c. ₱ gallon. Market quiet, but firm.

NAVAL STORES—Crude Turpentine is selling slowly at $3¼@$3½ ₱ 280 lbs. Spirits do. is rather more inquired for. Sales were made of 200 bbls., in lots, at 41½c.@42c. cash, ₱ gallon. The stock of both articles is limited. Tar is moderately sought after and is unchanged in value. Rosin is in fair request at steady rates. Pitch is inactive and somewhat nominal.

OILS—Whale and Sperm are unaltered. 250 baskets Olive were disposed of on private terms. Palm Oil is in better request at 9½c. ₱ lb. Red Oil is selling, in lots, at 80c. ₱ gallon. There is rather more movement in Linseed at 85c.@86c. ₱ gallon. The stock is decreasing. Lard Oil has not varied much.

PROVISIONS—Pork is but moderately active and prices are somewhat unsettled. The receipts are not large; and there is but a moderate supply here. The trade, however, buy sparingly, and there exists no active shipping inquiry. The day's sales add up 900 bbls. at $16 18¾@$16 25 for old mess; $14 87½ for new prime; $17 75 for new mess; $13 50 for uninspected rump; $15 25@$15 50 for Western prime mess, and $17 for thin mess, ₱ bbl. Dressed Hogs are dull and heavy at 7c.@7½c. ₱ lb. The weather is not favorable for cutting and selling; and but little of this kind of work is being done. Hence there is a falling off in the demand, which counteracts the influence of limited receipts. Cut Meats are rare and needed, with sales of 290 pkgs. at 9½c.@9¾c. for Hams, and 7c.@7¼c. for shoulders, ₱ lb. Bacon is also scarce and in demand. Sales were made, to-day, of 450 boxes at 8c. for short middles, rib in; and 9½c. for long do., clear, ₱ lb. Lard is in lively request, and is very stiffly held. The day's movements include 500 bbls. and tcs., in lots, at 10½c.@10¾c., the latter an outside price; and 300 kegs at 11c.@11½c. ₱ lb. We understand that nearly 2,500 bbls. were purchased during the last two days of last week, on speculation, mostly prime quality, at 10½c. ₱ lb. The steamer's news is quite favorable. Beef is in good request, and is increasing in value. The day's sales amount to 800 bbls. at $7@$8 50 for country prime; $8 50@$9 for city do.; $9 50@$12 50 for country mess; $14 75@$15 50 for repacked mess, and $16 25@$16 50 for extra mess, ₱ bbl. Beef Hams, Butter and Cheese are unchanged.

RICE—There has been again quite a movement in the market,—the sales to-day reaching about 700 casks at 5½c.@6½c. Holders are not disposed to sell prime now under 6½c., and the other grades in proportion.

SUGARS—The market is inactive, but steady,—with sales of about 200 hhds. Cuba and New-Orleans at 4¾c.@5⅜c. ₱ lb.

TALLOW—There were 8,000 lbs. prime disposed of on private terms.

WHISKY—Is in slack request at 35c.@35½c., cash, ₱ gallon. There is rather more offering, but holders are reluctant to sell at any lower rates, and as this, however, no important transactions have occurred.

FREIGHTS—A very moderate business was transacted at old rates. The Nashville's news was considered too stale to be acted upon, as the Africa, with a week's later advices, was deemed nearly due at Halifax and likely to reach that port at any moment. The scarcity of most kinds of produce was, however, the greatest impediment to an active business. For Liverpool, there were engaged 600 to 800 bales Cotton at 3-16d.@7-32d. ₱ lb.; 100 tons Logwood on private terms; and 80 boxes Tobacco at 15s. For London, there were shipped 1,200 bbls. Rosin at 1s. 9d.; and 75 boxes Tobacco at 2s. For Havre, there were some small lots of Cotton and Bone taken at ½c. ₱ lb. For Antwerp, engagements were reported of 100 bales Cotton at ⅝c. ₱ lb.; and 400 bbls. Rosin at 2s. 9d. For other ports, we heard of nothing particularly new.

RAILWAY ACCEPTANCES and other Business Paper purchased by JOHN T. MURRAY, No. 44 Wall-st., over Bank of North America.

FINANCIAL.

$1,000,000.—BONDS OF THE VIRGINIA AND TENNESSEE RAILROAD COMPANY.—Proposals will be received for the whole or any part of the above issue of Bonds. They are dated 1st of July, 1854, and payable to bearer, in the City of New-York, on the 30th June, 1884, with interest coupons attached, at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum, payable semi-annually, at the Bank of America, on the 1st of January and July of each year, and one half their amount convertible into the stock of the Company at the option of the holder.

These bonds are issued under full authority of the stockholders, for the purpose of finishing and equipping the road, and they are secured by a second mortgage on the road, with all the real estate, fixtures and equipments, franchises, appurtenances, and privileges appertaining thereto. The first, and prior mortgage, is for $1,500,000, of which $1,000,000 was taken by the State of Virginia on the following very advantageous terms: 6 per cent. interest, and the principal to be liquidated by payments annually of one per cent. for thirty-four years, commencing on the 1st of July, 1858. The remaining $500,000 were sold at par.

The capital of the Company is $3,000,000, three-fifths of which is held by the State of Virginia, and the whole amount paid in is $2,976,100.

The length of the road from the city of Lynchburg to the Tennessee line is 204 miles, of which 135 are entirely finished and in operation. The remaining sixty-nine miles require only $935,000 to complete them, and ten months' labor is only necessary to put the entire road into full operation. There has been expended on the road about $5,500,000 in construction, rolling stock and expenses—a sum double the amount of both mortgages, which together do not exceed $15,000 per mile of road. The road forms a link in the chain of roads which are to become probably the most important route in the Union, giving an almost straight line from the Northern and Eastern cities to those on the Gulf of Mexico, and the Mississippi, shortening the distance more than two hundred miles; and there is but one link more to be finished to afford a continuous railroad transportation from the city of Washington to Montgomery, Ala. But independent of the travel that will come to it as a part of the great South and North line, the Virginia and Tennessee Railroad has a certain local business of its own, which is clearly ascertained by the earnings of last year with only eighty-five miles open ($160,920 79) as being sufficient of itself to support the road. It passes almost its whole length through a region abounding with a variety of minerals of the most valuable nature, such as lead, coal, iron, copper, salt and gypsum, all of which exist in great abundance, which have hitherto been neglected, but which are fast being developed now that they can be conveyed to market. In short the prospects of the road are most flattering, and fostered as it has been by the State, and supported generally by the people of Virginia, with so large a cash capital actually paid in, it is believed no security has been recently offered of a better character. The Company have agreed to set apart one per cent. annually on the amount of their bonds from the earnings of the road, as a Sinking Fund to meet the payment of them at maturity; and the stockholders have adopted, as a line of policy, to declare no dividend excepting from a cash surplus, after the interest and Sinking Fund have been provided for.

The terms on which the sale will be made are 25 per cent. down, and the balance in payments of 10 per cent. every thirty days till all paid. If the whole amount is paid at once, interest to the 1st July to be allowed. The right of rejecting all or any part of the bids is reserved, if deemed for the interests of the Company to do so. The bonds will be lodged in Bank, to be delivered when the whole amount is paid. Full information will be given on all subjects connected with the financial affairs of the Company which could be derived by parties wishing to offer for the bonds, and documents and references obtained by applying to ADRIAN H. MULLER, Esq., No. 38 Wall-st., New-York, to whom offers must be sent, sealed and marked "Tender for Railroad Bonds," on or before the 24th day of May next.

Prohibition Again.

The Tribune at last perceives—and what is more acknowledges—the difference between a and the:—between a law embodying the principle of liquor prohibition, and the specific law which finds favor in its eyes for the attainment of that object. And it concedes, somewhat grudgingly it must be owned, that one may be in favor of prohibition, even if he does not subscribe fully and implicitly to all the ways and means by which in any particular plan the attainment of that result may be sought. Neither the Times, nor its Editor, has ever professed to be as thorough or as zealous in the advocacy of a prohibitory law, as the Tribune. We have not been as thoroughly convinced as that paper has professed to be, that such an experiment in this State would prove successful. We have never pretended to subscribe to many of its doctrines as to the essential criminality of selling, or of drinking, a glass of wine or a mug of beer, and have consequently not been prepared to go with it in its advocacy of extreme penalties and punishments for such an act. Our own readers have at no time been misled as to our opinions upon this subject. If those of the Tribune have, it has been solely in consequence of its habitual and wilful misrepresentations of them.

The Rochester American resorts to an ingenious perversion of the language of Mr. Raymond's letter to Mr. Richardson, for the sake of convicting him of inconsistency in his views upon this subject. Mr. Richardson had asked two questions;—first, whether Mr. Raymond was in favor of a prohibitory law; and second, whether if the office of Governor should devolve upon him he would sign a bill "similar in its general principles" to the one vetoed by Governor Seymour. Mr. Raymond in reply had said just this:

> "I answer both the inquiries in the affirmative. In view of the great and increasing evils of intemperance, and of the necessity of legislative action upon the subject, I am decidedly in favor of a prohibitory law, and in the contingency which you suppose, I should approve of and sign a bill. I may add that such a law would receive my support in any official position which might afford the opportunity and involve the duty of acting upon it."

One disposed to take words for what they mean would have no difficulty in understanding this to be a declaration "in favor of a prohibitory law," and an assurance that "such a law," (namely, a prohibitory law,) would receive his official support. The American, however, construes it to imply a great deal more. It asserts that "last September Mr. Raymond said he would "approve of and support in any official position" the law vetoed by Gov. Seymour or one similar to it." We submit that this construction is entirely too liberal to be accurate. While Mr. R. would unquestionably have signed a bill similar in its general principles to the one vetoed by Gov. Seymour, if enacted by a succeeding Legislature, had the duties of Governor devolved upon him, there is nothing in his letter, nor in the columns of the Times, to warrant the assumption that its details met the approbation of his judgment, or that the equally stringent and still more obnoxious provisions of the present law must of necessity receive his approval.

It is not our custom to intrude matters mainly personal so largely upon the attention of our readers. But the manifest purpose of a portion of the press, to place the Times and its editor in a false position upon this subject, and to excite a clamor against both, which neither has deserved, for alleged inconsistency in regard to it, must be an apology. We have endeavored to state clearly and explicitly our opinions upon this as upon other topics we have been called on to discuss;—and we feel that nothing we have said or done warrants our cotemporaries in assuming either that we did not mean what we said, or that we must be held responsible for pledges which others, acting without warrant and for purposes of their own, have endeavored to fasten upon the language used.

Another Hitch in the Liquor Law.

Elsewhere will be found a letter from a correspondent pointing out another serious difficulty to be encountered in enforcing the Prohibitory Liquor Law. It would seem that the fourth section of this law declares the violation of any of its provisions to be a misdemeanor. Now, an act recently passed by the Legislature gives to the Court of Special Sessions the exclusive jurisdiction of all misdemeanors. It follows, then, that the Recorder and City Judge alone—and not "Justices of the Peace, Police Justices, County Judges, and Justices of the Marine and District Courts," as recited in the Liquor Law—will have power to try and convict persons for infringing its provisions. This can never be carried into practice. The Recorder and City Judge could not hear a tithe of the cases that will be brought before them if the law is to be strictly enforced in this City.

The Know-Nothing Movement.

Whether the Know-Nothings as a political party are gaining or losing strength, it is becoming clear that their mode of warfare must hereafter be essentially different from that which has given them strength hitherto. Their political machinery must be changed. The secrecy of their meetings, which has been a prominent element of their power, must give place to open public discussion, and their adherents must be released from the binding obligation of oaths and secret engagements. The whole spirit of our people is hostile to such modes of effecting political results. While they are novel, and so long as the knowledge of them is confined to their adherents, they are attractive from the mystery that surrounds them, and contribute to swell the numbers and increase the zeal of the party in whose service they are employed. But secret societies of oathbound partisans can never become a permanent element in our political system. When their existence and activity come to be known, they become objects of suspicion. They awaken distrust. They are too much like conspiracies to be popular in a free Republic.

This reaction against the secret machinery of the Know-Nothing movement, is already beginning to tell with effect upon its progress and power. In those States where it succeeded best, it is the most completely broken. In Massachusetts, whose whole Government was elected by secret councils, less than a year ago, the same party is now compelled to discuss its doctrines openly, and to meet the other political parties in the open field and before the people. General Wilson, himself elected Senator by this Secret Order, made a public speech last week upon its principles and its aims. And the same process is going on in other States. And just in proportion to the age and progress of the movement, grows the necessity for this change in its tactics. In this State the Legislative discussions of last Winter had a powerful effect in directing the public mind to the anti-republican character, not so much of the principles of the new Order, as of the machinery by which it seeks to carry them into practical effect. The same result followed which has been seen elsewhere. The movement has been checked. In no part of the State are the Know-Nothings as strong now as they were last Fall; and in very many sections they have lost ground very decidedly. In this City they are neither as numerous, as zealous, nor as effective as they were six months ago; and in other quarters, though their muster rolls may exhibit an undiminished list, thousands of their members have ceased to take any active part in their proceedings, and will no longer act in obedience to their dictation.

The sentiment out of which the party grew may, nevertheless, be as strong as ever. We are inclined to think it is. There is throughout the country a deep dislike of the foreigners who come among us, and a still deeper dislike of the religion most of them profess. This hostility, amounting often to intense and bigoted hatred, will seek satisfaction and protection for itself in restrictive laws. And just now the policy of such laws will be sustained by a very large and active political party. But this can no longer be done in secret councils, or by evasion of the responsibilities that attach in this country to all political movements. This design must be pushed forward in open day, and in full view of the great mass of the people. These principles must be speedily and boldly discussed; and we are inclined to think that the issues to which they give rise will form no inconsiderable part in the next political contest. Just now the Know-Nothing movement seems to be rapidly and steadily allying itself with the pro-Slavery movement of the Southern States. Every step taken in this direction will weaken it at the North.

Whether the new party has strength and bottom enough to carry it successfully through such an open warfare remains to be seen. All sentiments, it must be remembered, are short-lived in proportion to the violence and vehemence of their demonstration—their ultraism inevitably creates a reaction fatal to their growth. And, although they may be hurried into unwise and unjust measures of proscription, either of religion or of race, the American people cannot be enticed or driven into any system of legislation which is at war with those principles of equal political rights, and of perfect religious toleration, on which all their institutions rest.

Col. Kinney's Colony.

We publish elsewhere a correspondence between Colonel Kinney and his legal advisers, in relation to the legality of the Colonel's proposed Central American expedition. The object of the correspondence is, of course, to furnish a set-off to Señor Marcoleta's denunciations of the enterprise. It is now the Minister's turn again; and as he has promised the evidences upon which he founds his charges against our famous Ranger, it is to be supposed he will produce them forthwith. Let them be short and to the point, Señor, and may be you will get the best of the controversy yet, although the odds are rather against you at present. The Colonel's lawyers say he is all right, and not the least bit of a fillibuster. Can't you induce your friend White, of the Nicaragua, to blow a counterblast? Get the expedition fairly in the lawyers' hands, and Central America is safe for some years at least—especially if the learned gentlemen can manage to put it in chancery.

Seriously, Señor Marcoleta, by his publications through the Press, betrays the conviction that he cannot interfere with the Kinney project, except it may be by deterring parties from engaging therein. If he had any reasonable ground for believing the expedition to be in contravention of the Neutrality act, he would silently collect his proofs, forward them to Washington, and rely upon the Government to take the necessary measures for the preservation of the law. He sees impending over his country, or, rather, over its existing Government, the fate of all imbecile Powers when intelligence, energy and enterprise come in contact therewith. To struggle against this fate is scarcely wise. If the Central American Colonists commit no excesses, but settle like civilized men, with the fixed purpose of developing the resources of that country, they will do much for mankind. There is room for development and improvement, both of the country itself and of its population; and if anything, no matter how little, be accomplished in that direction, the loss of political power by those who now wield it for their own selfish ends alone should be counted as nothing, and will be counted as nothing, by those who think the interests of aggregate humanity worth more than those of a few inefficient rulers. Of course, speculative, not philanthropic motives, impel the Kinney Colonists; nevertheless, these good results must flow from their enterprise, unless they become buccaneers or land pirates, which does not seem to be anticipated, even by the nervous minister from Nicaragua.

The Crimean Drama.

The great events which are now transpiring in Europe are, in themselves and in their relation to the rest of the world, without a parallel in the history of the human race. We seem, as it were, to be present at the enactment of a sublime and terrible drama, with the Crimea for its stage, and all Europe and America gazing, as in a theatre, with agonized interest at what is passing, as incident after incident brings us gradually, through one tragic scene after another, to the approach of the last awful catastrophe. For, although in other periods of the world's history, events of equal magnitude and interest may have occurred, still they never before happened under circumstances of the same publicity, so to speak, as now, when the celerity with which information is propagated by the Press, the Telegraph and by steam, and the general dissemination of intelligence, have the effect of placing every incident almost before the eyes simultaneously of all mankind.

The last advices from England seem to render it certain that the hostile armies before Sebastopol are on the brink of another and final trial of strength, only to be averted, if that be possible, by a hasty conclusion of negotiations pending at Vienna. The Russians, to whom the march of troops and the transportation of munitions of war was rendered facile by the ice and snows of Winter, have been actively engaged, during the last four months, in preparations for a decisive attack on the combined forces of England, France and Turkey. On the other hand, the Winter, which so facilitated the operations of the Russians, has aggravated incalculably the difficulties of the allies. Cold, disease and suffering in various forms have achieved a terrible work in the ranks of the allies, not only by depleting their numbers, but by dispiriting those who still live, and destroying their confidence in the leaders, whose sagacity and firmness failed to anticipate and make provision against these disasters. This must be so. It is vain to tell us that the men are in fine spirits and eager for the fray. Human nature is the same everywhere; and while there may be no murmuring in the French or British camps where official ears may hear and report it, the scenes and sorrows of the last Winter, the vacant places in many a mess, and the thousands of new-made graves, filled, as the living know so well, by almost fiendish neglect, or the scarcely less culpable ignorance of those who undertook to conduct the Crimean campaign—the thought and the sight of all these cannot fail to depress the spirits of those who survive. The people of England, engaged in their daily avocations at home, and knowing nothing of affairs in the Crimea, except as they read of them in the public journals, are become dispirited and dismayed; and the difficulty of recruiting men to go to the East is so great that we have quite recently beheld British officers sweeping the streets of New-York for a few soldiers from the scum of our population, to fill the places already vacated by death. If these things are so, who will believe that the actors and sufferers in all the sickening details of the campaign,—with its starvation and epidemics, its fatal fields, and quite as fatal hospitals,—are still as light of heart, as full of vigor and of wilful daring as when, a few months since, they left the shores of "Merry England," with bright anticipations of glory in view, and the expectation of a speedy return.

The French Army, in consequence of the superiority of its organization and administration, is in much better plight than the British. Yet it is clear that neither are in position or in numbers competent to invest Sebastopol, and still less to reduce it by assault, or to withstand in the open field the masses of the Russian army. The Spring campaign has opened; and the Russians are the attacking party. The time has come for which England and France have been waiting, at a cost to the former of the reduction of the most brilliant army she ever sent to the field to a mere handful of despairing men. Is there anything in the present condition of affairs promising honorable extrication from the perilous position both armies occupy? Absolutely nothing that we can see. If reinforcements have been obtained by the allies, more have been concentrated by the Russians; and, besides, the latter have Wintered at home, reveling in comfort, while the allies were suffering and in despair. The allied fleets can find no easier access to Sebastopol now than a year ago; and there is little that is more promising in the Baltic. The people of England evidently expect not much in that quarter; and Admiral Dundas sailed on the 4th inst. with his magnificent Baltic fleet almost unheralded. A comparison of his quiet departure, with the boisterous, boastful parade which bid Napier farewell a few months since, tells a woful story of the extinguishment of British enthusiasm. It is difficult to see from what point succor is to come unless it be Vienna; and we shall be most agreeably disappointed if the deliberations there bring about a peace. England wants it, but Napoleon dare not have it on terms such as the Czar will make. The war will still go on, until the crowned heads who sought to humble a power they feared, and feared only lest its despotism should override their own—shall be made to hear the voice of the people, and to espouse honestly the cause of the nations. When they do that, the terrific drama will have a glorious termination. If they fail to do it, ere the play is out, the supernumeraries—the masses—may find fitting opportunity to take it in their own hands, and enact its close over the wreck of those who have so badly played its principal parts.

Rank Rebellion.

Mr. Bright has been making a speech at Manchester on the mismanagement of the war. Mr. Bright is one of those rare gentlemen who take the liberty of making up their own opinions, and of that still rarer class who, when they talk, speak for themselves, instead of somebody else. He consequently says a great many things with which people in general do not agree; and has rather fallen into the habit lately of saying things which are deemed exceedingly eccentric and disloyal by the conservative portion of the English people.

His last speech seems to have been even bolder than usual in this direction. He began by confessing that he felt humiliated at the present position of the English people:—and he went on to speak, with considerable disrespect, of the powers that bear sway in the British realm:

> We have a Government (said he) as we all know, of distinguished men—that is, distinguished, some of them, by lines of ancestry, [laughter,] more correctly and exactly recorded than anything of which we, down here, pretend to boast. [Hear, hear, and laughter.] We have a Government, as we have had for the last two years, made up almost exclusively, of Lords, [hear, hear;] men who do not consider it necessary for them, or becoming them, one or the other, to engage in those avocations which, in Lancashire, are generally considered to be befitting to almost all men, and honorable, certainly, to all who are engaged in them. [Hear, hear.] We have a Government of Lords, of hereditary persons, who kindly undertake to rule this great nation, charging us £5,000 a year for each of these persons, and they consider it very often extremely impertinent if we make any comment whatsoever upon the manner in which we are governed. [Hear, hear.]

He thought if the people would take matters a little more into their own hands, the affairs of the nation might be better managed than they had been for a few years past.

Mr. Bright proceeded to examine the manner in which the foreign relations of Great Britain are carried on. At Constantinople their minister was a man of the worst possible temper—sent there mainly because he had been there before, and distinguished for nothing so much as for his personal hostility to the Emperor of Russia, who had once refused to receive him as ambassador. At Vienna they had a man utterly incompe*tent for the duties of the place*. And thus, said Mr. Bright:

> You have, then, a man of the worst temper and the worst qualifications for his office at Constantinople; and you have a man old and feeble and incompetent at Vienna—Lords both ["Hear," and laughter;] and you have a Government at home made up almost exclusively of Lords [hear;] and you find yourselves now, in the year 1855, as last year, landed in a war the objects of which none of these men can explain to you [hear,] no portion of which can they manage with even common ability, and the end of which they are not able to point to with any hope that it can produce the smallest beneficial result to any human being in these kingdoms. [Cheers.]

In a similar vein of strong, eloquent common sense Mr. Bright went on to criticise the conduct of the war, denouncing it as absurd and imbecile,—and insisting that there was never the slightest reason why England should go to war with Russia. And he closed with the following strong contrast between what England is doing and what she might have done if she had left the war alone:

> You hear that the health of the troops is excellent; it is wonderful. They are having races and dog hunts, and I do not know what besides, but that does nothing for those men whose remains are sleeping under the soil of the Crimea. It does nothing for those who are languishing in the Hospitals at Smyrna and Scutari. It does little for those who were mangled and maimed and injured for life. It does nothing for the homes which are desolate. It does nothing for all those myriads of our population who day by day find the grip of poverty closing more and more upon them. But if the people of this country could only see the one picture and the other—what England might have been, and certainly would have been, if she had maintained the principle of non-intervention in these European affairs—[prolonged applause]—if they could see this country cultivated like a garden, every sober and industrious artisan living in comfort equal to the average comfort of your middle classes, if they could see every child well educated, your poorhouses and your gaols buildings for the most part not required—and then contrast it with what you are now with those £28,000,000 of debt incurred, the largest portion of it for that needless war, how that is wrung from all classes, and not less from the poor by the taxgatherer; and remember, also, that this year nearly £40,000,000—an incredible sum—a sum we cannot count in a lifetime—a sum ten lifetimes could not make us comprehend in the good that it might do for man—that those £40,000,000 are voted in two or three nights in the House of Commons this session to carry on this war, 3,000 miles away from your homes, for objects which your statesmen have never defined, and in a war which threatens to leave us afflicted with many disasters and without having added one single laurel to our reputation, and having done everything to damage us for statesmanship and as a practical people among all the nations of the earth.

Not to be Restored.

Capt. Downing, late of the Navy, who was dismissed the service some time since by sentence of Court-Martial, has recently appealed to the Secretary of the Navy to be reinstated, upon the ground that the proceedings of the Court which condemned him were null, because of the absence of one of its members. The Attorney General, upon reference of the case to him, has decided that whether the sentence was lawful or not, the dismissal of the captain is a consummated fact, and a restoration to the service can only be accomplished by a renomination to the Senate and confirmation by that body. This step the President will hardly take, and so there seems little chance for Capt. Downing's reinstatement. It will not add to the captain's laurels that he has sought, by a technicality, to escape the penalty which a Court composed of his brother officers have declared to be his due—a penalty the justice of which the President promptly endorsed, as also did the country. Had he succeeded, by such means, in evading the punishment meted out to him, the captain's future career in the service would hardly have proved durable, unless his sensibilities are cased in material little less tough than the rhinoceros' hide.

Dramatic.

Broadway Theatre.—Of the three Roman plays written by Shakespeare, "Coriolanus" deals mostly with the masses, and from it we learn, that the immortal bard was no tolerator of broad riots. The vox populi was not the vox dei in his estimation, but something of a less healthful and more offensive nature. The sovereign people, as depicted in this tragedy, is a vacillating, cowardly, time-serving crowd, good humored enough, but contemptible, in spite of joviality. Shakespeare's object in thus depicting the citizens of Rome was undoubtedly to teach a later generation the vanity, instability and fruitlessness of depending on them or any other citizens for mere military glory—a thing that men are too apt to strive for, and which, more than anything else, depends on the public breath of the moment. "Coriolanus" is a type of the warrior-chieftain—haughty, defiant, stiff-necked, yet courageous and modest—exacting everything for his office but accepting nothing for himself—asking for little openly, but demanding everything tacitly, with all the insolence of superior force.

Mr. Forrest has not appeared in this character for fifteen years, and the novelty of his impersonation attracted a large audience to the Broadway last evening. The audience went in expectation and left in disappointment. The performance was tame, the applause feeble, and the failure of the leading artist apparent to the meanest capacity. For many reasons, we would prefer on this occasion to speak genially of Mr. Forrest, believing as we do, that in recent criticism he has been underrated in characters for which he is physically suited; but we cannot. His conception of the character of Coriolanus was not only mistaken, but common-place. Instead of the high-bred patrician warring for his country and his class; instead of the fiery General, quick in word as in action; instead of the flashing, resentful nature which could not brook "article tying him to aught;"—instead of these Mr. Forrest gave us a large phlegmatic man with a strong predilection for standing in one place, and a tedious habit of pausing between his sentences. His contempt for the people and their tribunes was mere insolence; his pride a matter of folded arms. Although the character constantly suggests impetuosity, and a self-will beyond all restraint, Mr. Forrest gave it with assumption of stolid dignity and disinterested sarcasm. In the fourth and fifth acts he warmed up, and was, in consequence, better. Here again, however, was a defect. Coriolanus should be the same from the first act to the last. It was this total want of adaptability that led to all his misfortunes. Mr. Forrest's Coriolanus of the first act was, on the contrary, a totally different being to the Coriolanus of the last act. The points or "hits" of the dialogue were carefully avoided, an indication of improved taste in Mr. Forrest for which we were scarcely prepared. There was but little applause during the performance.

The play itself has been butchered in the most barbarous way. Although five acts are given, we doubt if half of the author's work has been retained. Whole scenes and characters are omitted; in short, everything has been sacrificed to the exigences of a spectacle. As such the tragedy has merits; the scenery is new and sometimes good, although the effect of the latter is considerably marred by insufficient details—such, for example, as old and inappropriate side slips for a newly painted flat. These should be remedied. There are many processions introduced. In one of them Coriolanus appears in a chariot drawn by the people. He stands like a wax-work figure,—cold, angular and impressive. This is in flagrant violation of the text, and of every incident in the career of the hero. The idea of Coriolanus permitting the greasy plebians to make an exhibition of him!

Anniversary of St. George's Society.

This Society celebrated its Anniversary last evening in the Metropolitan Hotel. A magnificent dinner was discussed. Dr. Young, of the Albion, presided. The statistics of the benevolent operations of the Society were narrated, and responses to appropriate sentiments were made by Judge Campbell, Capt. Warlow, Sir Chas. Grey, the Marquis de Montholon and others. Our full account is crowded out.

The New-York Prison Association.

The regular monthly meeting of this Association was held last evening at Clinton Hall, Astor-place. The receipts of this Benevolent Society for the month have only been about $150. During the month 331 persons confined in the City Prison have been talked to and advised by the Agent; 87 persons have been discharged from custody on his recommendation; 65 have received assistance, and a number have been sent by the Society to work on farms. The Agent recounted several interviews which he had had with criminals, after which the meeting adjourned.

Walked Overboard and Drowned.

Yesterday morning about 4 o'clock, a young man named Edward Cole, walked overboard at Pier No. 15, East River, and was drowned. The body was raked up a few hours after, and an inquest held by Coroner O'Donnell. Verdict "Death by accidental drowing." Deceased resided in Brooklyn. He was probably in search of the Wall-street Ferry boat when he met with the fatal accident.

The Maine Law—Who Shall Enforce It?

To the Editor of the New-York Daily Times:

There is a very serious barrier to the effectual enforcement of the Prohibitory Liquor Law, which I think may not yet have met the notice of any one. It is this: No magistrate in the City of New-York, except the Recorder and City Judge, has power to try and convict persons of violations of any of the provisions of this law, and no court, except the Court of Special Sessions of the Peace, as now constructed, has jurisdiction of offences against this act. Let me state how this is. This law for the suppression of intemperance was passed on the ninth day of April inst. The fifth section provides as follows:

> Sec. V. Every Justice of the Peace, Police Justice, County Judge, City Judge; and in addition, in the City of New-York, the Recorder, each Justice of the Marine Court, and the Justices of the District Courts—and in all cities where there is a Recorder's Court—the Recorder shall have power to issue process, to hear and determine charges, and punish for all offences arising under any of the provisions of this act, and they are each hereby authorized and required to hold Courts of Special Sessions for the trial of such offences, and under this act to do all other acts and exercise the same authority that may be done or exercised by Justices of the Peace in criminal cases, and by Courts of Special Sessions, as the same are now constituted; and the term Magistrate as used in this act, shall be deemed to refer to and include each officer named in this section. Such Court of Special Sessions shall not be required to take the examination of any person brought before it upon charge of an offence under this act, but shall proceed to trial as soon thereafter as the complainant can be notified; and for good cause shown, he may adjourn from time to time, not exceeding twenty days. At the time of joining issue, and not after, either party may demand trial by jury, in which case the magistrate shall issue a venire and cause a jury to be summoned and impaneled as in other criminal cases in Courts of Special Sessions.

This section, it is true, gives each of the magistrates named power to hold "Courts of Special Session" for the trial of all offences arising under the provisions of the act, and were it not for subsequent legislation, as we shall see, there would here be a sufficient number of magistrates, perhaps—being between thirty and forty in all—to carry out the purposes of this law. Section four of the act declares that all who violate any of its provisions shall be guilty of a misdemeanor; and as this is a most important section in respect to the view I desire to present of this matter, it is necessary to give it in full.

> Sec. IV. Every person who shall violate any provision of either of the preceding sections shall, upon conviction, be adjudged guilty of a misdemeanor, and except for failure to file his return or make his entries as in the last section provided, shall forfeit all the liquor kept by him in violation of either of the preceding sections, and be punished as follows: For any violation of section first, for the first offence, by a fine of $50; for the second offence, by a fine of $100, and thirty days' imprisonment; for the third and every subsequent offence, by a fine of not less than $100, nor more than $250, and by imprisonment, not less than three nor more than six months. For any violation of section second or third, by a fine of $100, and by imprisonment in the County Jail not less than thirty days, and be ever thereafter disqualified for selling liquor within this State. Upon every conviction the defendant shall also be required to pay all costs and fees, as provided in this act. In default of payment of any such fine, costs and fees, or any part thereof, the defendant shall be committed until the same are paid, not less than one day per dollar of the amount unpaid. If any person purchasing any liquor, as in the last section provided, shall, at the time, make any false statement concerning the use to which such liquor is to be applied, he shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall forfeit and pay a fine of ten dollars and costs, as provided for this act, and shall be committed until paid, but not less than one day per dollar of the amount unpaid.

Now, on the twelfth day of April, instant—three days after the passage of the Maine Law—the Legislature passed an act to enlarge the jurisdiction of the Court of General and Special Sessions of the Peace in the City of New-York. The fifth section of this act relates to the Court of Special Sessions of the Peace, and reads as follows:

> Sec. 5. The Court of Special Sessions of the Peace in and for the City and County of New-York, shall have power to hear, determine, and punish according to law, all complaints for misdemeanors, and shall possess exclusive jurisdiction thereof, unless the said Court of Special Sessions shall order any such complaint to be sent to the Court of General Sessions of the Peace; and unless the accused, when arrested and brought before the committing magistrate, shall elect to have his case heard and determined by the Court of General Sessions of the Peace in and for the City and County of New-York; and it is hereby made the duty of such magistrate, upon such arrest, to inform the said accused of the provisions of this section.

It will be remembered that the law against Intemperance and Crime declares that a violation of its provisions is a misdemeanor, and the section of a law passed three days after gives the Court of Special Sessions of the peace—which cannot be held by any of the magistrates named in the Maine Law act except the Recorder and City Judge—exclusive jurisdiction of all misdemeanors, unless they shall order the complaint to be sent to the General Sessions, which is also held by the same two Judges. To render it conclusive that none of the magistrates named in the Maine Law act, except the Recorder and City Judge, can derive any authority from that law to try and convict, the last section of the act in relation to the Special Sessions of the peace declares as follows:

> Section 8. All acts, statutes, parts of acts and parts of statutes, or provisions of law, conflicting with any of the provisions of this act, are hereby repealed.
>
> Sec. 9. This act shall take effect immediately.

This subject is a matter of grave importance, and entitled to serious consideration. C.

[illegible]

[illegible] From the Journal of Commerce.

The orders which have been given to Capt. McCauley are of the most explicit and prudent character. He is not instructed to make any demands upon the Cuban authorities, nor to ask for any explanations with regard to the past—and even if he should hear that [illegible] the flag that a vessel of the United States has been fired upon, his instructions do not allow him to pursue the offender, nor to take any notice of [illegible] possible, to prevent any outrage [illegible] his own immediate observation. A higher bounty than has ever before been paid in our Navy, is now offered to seamen, in order that Capt. McCauley's squadron may be reinforced as rapidly as possible; but only in the case that a vessel under his command shall witness an attack upon one of our merchantmen, is he at liberty to resent it. If so wanton and gratuitous an insult to this country should be offered as firing upon an unarmed vessel of the United States, in presence of one of our men-of-war, Capt. McCauley is instructed to chastise, and if possible to sink the aggressor, no matter what disparity of force may exist against him, what armed witnesses favorable to Spain may be present, or what the risk to himself may be.

EMANCIPATION IN CUBA.

Correspondence of the Journal of Commerce.

Washington, Saturday, April 21, 1855.

The Spanish Government has given satisfactory assurances that it will not abolish Slavery in Cuba. At the same time it has pledged itself to suppress the African Slave-trade. The latter task may be difficult of execution, as the slaves are clandestinely landed at points which cannot be well guarded. But a considerable number must be continually landed, in order to keep up the supply of labor required by the planters. Nearly half of the Africans in Cuba are free already. The Spanish laws afford great facilities for emancipation. Of the newly imported Africans, a large portion are rapidly used up. Great scarcity of labor must be the consequence of the actual enforcement of laws against the importation of slaves from Africa. Therefore the Cuban planters are looking to over-peopled Asia for a supply of labor from her most degraded classes. We learn from your paper that the long anticipated design of stocking Cuban plantations with hired Coolies, as laborers, is in process of execution. Will not this experiment, if it succeed, tend to render still more easy than at present the emancipation of slaves in Cuba? If it do not succeed, will not Cuba, after some years, be destitute of labor appropriate for the sugar culture? Will the Coolies continue, after the specified term of their employment—say five years, at $5 a month, and a premium to the Coolie broker—will they continue to labor for that or any other price which the planter can pay? Will they not become independent proprietors, and thus live at ease and at the minimum rate of industry which the genial clime and fruitful soil of Cuba demand?

Is it not easy to see, in the very fact of the substitution of free Asiatic for African slave labor, in Cuba, an evidence and an acknowledgment that Slavery is about to die out in Cuba; when it dies, will it not die every where? Or will it be uprooted there only to be replanted elsewhere? The gradual destruction of slave labor, and of course, the loss of slave products in Cuba, will serve to concentrate American Slavery in those regions which are productive of cotton and sugar, particularly in Texas and Louisiana. The area of Slavery will thus become limited in the United States, and the institution will be continued till circumstances shall occur that will lead to its extinction, either by a legal or a natural process. It is admitted, I believe, that sugar and cotton in hot regions, cannot be grown without compulsory labor. I am not sure, looking at the present state of things in this country, that breadstuffs can be raised by voluntary labor. The genius of our people is not of the clodhopper order, and it finds its favorite employments in every field, except that of raising wheat, corn and potatoes. For much even of these crops we are still indebted to compulsory labor—or, to speak more plainly, to negro-slaves. I am not sure that these involuntary laborers are not the chief support of this country,—in its agricultural, commercial, and manufacturing employments and products. Commerce could not spread a sail, nor could the abolition States turn a spindle, without the labor of slaves,—of black slaves. We have found out that Africans will not work when free. Will the Mongolian race do better? The American Indian race was tried and discarded long ago. What other races can be subjected to the task of supporting us? To enslave a portion of our own race is the next expedient of cupidity and indolence.

Colonel Kinney and His Colony.

To the Editor of the New-York Daily Times:

You will please publish the subjoined note and answer. It is due to me and my visit to Central America that the public should be fully assured of our purposes. Although I am indifferent to what unreflecting men may suppose our objects to be, yet I confess to a desire that my expedition shall have the good and valuable opinion of all other classes of my fellow-citizens. Yours, respectfully,

HENRY L. KINNEY.

New-York, April 23, 1855.

Messrs. Fancher & Eager—Gentlemen: Enclosed you will find a communication from Señor Marcoleta, the Minister from Nicaragua, which appeared in the Herald of yesterday and the Times of this morning, in which he refers to my expedition to Central America as warlike and revolutionary. The imputation becomes entitled to my notice only from the fact of its source.

As you have been the counsel of myself and my associates in the matter of the contemplated expedition, and have examined as such our titles to the grants of land which we purpose to colonize, and have had the fullest opportunity to know the details and objects of the expedition, I request that you will inform me what you conceive to be our purpose. I desire simply that the public shall understand the true position I occupy in relation to my visit to Central America.

Yours, respectfully, HENRY L. KINNEY.

New-York City, April 23, 1855.

Col. Henry L. Kinney—Dear Sir: In reply to your note of this morning, we deem it but justice to yourself and associates in your proposed expedition, to state that we regard it as nothing more than a lawfully organized emigration to Central America, for the purpose of cultivating and mining the vast tracts of unimproved land to which in our opinion you and they have a valid title. From an intercourse with you and the gentlemen associated with you, we take pleasure in stating that we have not seen, heard or suspected anything from which even an inference could be drawn, suggesting any warlike or revolutionary design towards the government of Nicaragua or any neighboring Power. On the contrary, your expedition is eminently calculated in its peaceful purposes to open to the commerce of this and the other civilized nations, a vast region of now uncultivated lands which invite and await the labor of enterprising men to develop its resources. Such men only have consented to participate in this emigration as are desirous to share in the laudable and profitable development of that rich, healthy and vast region. Very truly, FANCHER & EAGER.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

THE GREAT ENGLISH HUMORIST!
PUBLISHED THIS DAY,
MEN OF CHARACTER.
BY DOUGLAS JERROLD.
Author of "Caudle Lectures," "St. Giles and St. James," "Man Made of Money," &c.
CONTAINING

JOB PIPPINS, THE MAN WHO COULDN'T HELP IT.
ISAAC CHEEK, THE MAN OF WAX.
TITUS TRUMPS, THE MAN OF MANY HOPES.
JACK [illegible], THE MAN OF MANY THANKS.

Humorously illustrated with Original Designs by [illegible]. In 1 vol., 12mo. Cloth, [illegible]; Paper, 50 cents.

DOUGLAS JERROLD'S keen satire, shrewd observation, piquancy and humor are unapproachable, and in nothing from his pen have these characteristics been more forcibly displayed than in the sketchy stories which compose the above volume. They are redundant with Comic Situations and Amusing Adventures, and are replete with that humor which gave so wide a popularity to the "Caudle Lectures." The oddest and most laughter-provoking characters are grouped together. Plights and predicaments, inexpressibly funny, continually occur, and the reader is frequently betrayed into spontaneous explosions of laughter. They are not only Mirthful, but Sharp, Keen, Sarcastic, possessing a covert philosophy, and not unfrequently making use of the jester's license to start suggestive truths.

THE ENGLISHWOMAN IN RUSSIA.

CHARLES SCRIBNER will publish on SATURDAY, THE ENGLISHWOMAN IN RUSSIA; OR, IMPRESSIONS OF THE SOCIETY AND MANNERS OF THE RUSSIANS AT HOME. By a Lady ten years resident in that country. 1 vol., 12mo., with illustrations.

This book has been very popular in England, and has received favorable reviews from the English press. It has passed through four large editions in that country within a short time.

The Gentleman's Magazine says: "It is not only an interesting but an extraordinary work. The authoress is not a person who has run through the country guide book and note-book in hand. Here is no fortnight in Russia, nor even the fruit of a long vacation trip. Strange to say, she really knows something of the people of whom she writes. She has lived ten years among them, moving in good general society, and seeking and finding constant opportunities of becoming acquainted with the habits of that most heterogeneous mass, which is called the Russian people."

Now ready,

N. P. WILLIS' NEW WORK—THE RAG BAG. 1 vol., 12mo. $1 25.

THE MOST EMINENT ORATORS AND STATESMEN OF ANCIENT AND MODERN TIMES. Containing sketches of their lives, specimens of their eloquence, and an estimate of their genius. By D. A. Harsha. 1 vol. 8vo., with portrait. $3 25.

I am now prepared to supply the trade, railroads, steamboats, factories and families, with oils which are warranted NOT TO GUM ON THE FINEST MACHINERY, and to give entire satisfaction when burned in lamps, at prices ten per cent. less than can be purchased elsewhere. THE LOVELINESS IMPARTED to the skin by the free use of GOURAUD'S exquisite ITALIAN MEDICATED SOAP, amply supplies any deficiency in gracefulness. The horde of cuticular blemishes—such, for instance, as Tan, Freckles, Pimples, Sallowness, Sunburn, Pustules, Rashes, Ringworm, Redness and Roughness—depart from before this wonderful Soap, as the rank night dews are dispersed by the morning sun. Its soothing and healing qualities make it peculiarly valuable to the tender skins of infants; and for the purposes of shaving or bathing, (either in hard or salt water,) it is just the article wanted. GOURAUD'S POUDRE SUBTILE is the only depilatory extant which will uproot superfluous hair, without injury to the most delicate skin. GOURAUD'S HAIR RESTORATIVE will make wiry hair silky and glossy, force hair to grow where it has fallen off, and prevent hair from turning prematurely gray. GOURAUD'S LIQUID ROUGE is a beautiful article for staining pale cheeks and lips a delicate rose color. GOURAUD'S LILY WHITE is the only article ladies should use for whitening the complexion.

Dr. FELIX GOURAUD'S really valuable preparations are only to be had genuine at No. 67 Walker-st., first store from Broadway; CLICKENER, No. 81 Barclay-st.; CALLENDER, No. 88 South 3d-st., Philadelphia; and BATES, No. 129 Washington-st., Boston, &c.

THE MARRIED WOMAN'S PRIVATE MEDICAL COMPANION. By Dr. A. M. MAURICEAU, Professor of Diseases of Women. One Hundredth Edition, (500,000,) 18mo., pp. 250. On Fine Paper, Extra Binding, $1. Every complaint to which woman is subject, from girlhood to womanhood, as also as wife and as mother, are fully described, with the causes, the symptoms, and also proper mode of treatment, in a plain, simple, but in the most chaste language, easily understood. And thus every woman can discover, by comparing her own symptoms with those described, the nature, character, and causes of her complaint; and be spared much anxiety and suffering. The wife about becoming a mother has often need of instruction and advice of the utmost importance to her future health, in respect to which her sensitiveness forbids consulting a medical gentleman, will find such instruction and advice, and also explains many symptoms which otherwise would occasion anxiety or alarm. How many are suffering from obstructions or irregularities peculiar to the female system, which undermine the health, the effects of which they are ignorant, and for which the delicacy forbids seeking medical advice! How many suffer from prolapsus uteri, (falling of the womb,) or from fluor albus, (weakness, debility, &c.)! How many are in constant agony for many months preceding confinement! How many have difficult, if not dangerous deliveries, and slow and uncertain recoveries! Some whose lives are hazarded during such times, will each find in its pages the means of prevention, amelioration and relief. How many bitter moments, how much anguish, might have been spared to the sufferer, to her husband, to her relatives, by a timely possession of this little volume. It is impracticable to convey fully the various subjects treated of, as they are of a nature strictly intended for the married, or those contemplating marriage.

THE POLICE COMMITTEE INVESTIGATION.

BEGINNING OF THE END.

DISCUSSIONS THEREON.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE.

The Special Committee to whom was referred the report of the Chief of Police, in answer to a resolution of inquiry as to the nativity, &c., of the Police, presented, last evening in the Board of Aldermen, the following report of the progress thus far of the pending investigation.

The Committee rehearse the testimony taken by them of Mr. MATSELL, Mr. ISAAC BRUSH, Mr. EDWARD SHERLOCK, Mrs. LOUISA WYCKOFF, THOMAS and JOHN BAKER, SARAH ATKINSON, ELIZABETH KERVAN and ANN D. CUDLIPP, which has already been published in full in the columns of the DAILY TIMES. The Committee proceeds to say:

From the above it appears that Thomas Baker swears that he has often seen the family record of George Matsell's father, which the son denies any knowledge of. Mrs. Wyckoff swears that George W. Matsell's parents told her that their son, George W. Matsell, was born in England. Thomas Baker swears that George W. Matsell himself, from childhood up, has told him that he was born in England. Mrs. Pollock and Mrs. Atkinson swear that they remember George Matsell, the tailor, and his wife and children, on board the Perseus in 1817. Mrs. Kervan swears that she remembers George Matsell, the tailor, and his family, on board the Perseus in 1817,—that she has always believed George W. Matsell, the present Chief of Police, to have been a passenger with herself in the Perseus in 1817,—that it has always been understood, and talked over, and believed by those who came with her in the Perseus, that he is the same, and that it is a matter of history with her family. Mrs. Cudlipp swears that she distinctly and positively remembers George W. Matsell as a passenger with her on board the Perseus in 1817, she being then sixteen years of age. John Baker swears that he has heard George W. Matsell's father and mother say that their son, George W. Matsell, came over with them from England in the Perseus in 1817; that their son, George W. Matsell, was born in England; that George W. Matsell himself has often told him that he was born in England; and that George W. Matsell's father had told him that he named his son George William Matsell, after King George IV., and King William IV., when the former was Prince Regent, and when the latter was the Duke of Clarence, and many years before they ascended the British throne; that he never knew the father of George William Matsell to vote, and never knew that he was naturalized.

The report here proceeds with some comments upon the testimony, asserting that it proves perjury upon Mr. MATSELL, and in indignant and florid language consigning him to the Criminal Courts. Especial stress is laid upon the remarkable fact that the Chief don't know where he was born—an ignorance which the Committee evidently deem quite inexcusable, as the evidence is that MATSELL, junior, was present on that occasion, and ought to know something about it. A reflection, clothed in pathetic terms, is also cast upon the accused, for not knowing (of his own knowledge) where "his aged parents first breathed the air of their native land," that around the Winter firesides of forty years, his old father and mother never lingered with delight on the sequestered village or mighty city where they first beheld the dome of Heaven—where they first passed their happy childhood—that they never spoke of their place of worship, so dear to Englishmen—of their companions in youth and in maturer years, and of the beloved kindred they forever left behind them in their pilgrimage to the Western World." The Committee, it will be seen, visit "the sins of the father upon the children." The reason given in the report for Mr. Matsell's alleged tergiversations is his fear that the Committee would get hold of the parish books of the place of his birth, where "for ages will be recorded—George Wm. Matsell was born in England."

The Report next pitches into the Board of Aldermen, or some of its members, for attempting to stifle the investigation, and gives the names of "the ten Aldermen who voted and labored for their lives to discharge your Committee." It seems that the ten failed,—but we are not informed whether their "lives" really did pay the forfeit. The Committee have since learned that the Chief of Police and his friends "are determined to discharge the Committee on Monday evening (last evening) at all hazards,—and that they have made arrangements with all the newspapers that they could buy to sustain them in their damning deed!" This is alarming, and steps should be taken at once to counteract such impudent tampering with the Press. The Committee are shrewd. "In view of these startling facts," they concluded to report right off "what evidence they had obtained, and thereby anticipate the infamous attempt to be again made in the Board on Monday evening to discharge them in the midst of their labors." The Committee very pertinaciously and tautologically insist that they know Mr. Matsell to be a perjured man and "a British alien of the worst character," and they "most earnestly recommend his immediate impeachment."

The Report continues with the following eloquent explosion:

The Committee had heard of the drunken orgies over the lifeless form of Henry Clay, who had thrilled his country with his burning eloquence more than 40 years—who towered high in the Senate Assembly as the champion of all that was noble, and useful, and patriotic,—and who (with the immortal Webster) consecrated his last breath to the glory and eternal union of the States. They had heard, with painful emotions, of the disgusting transactions of the memorable Funeral Committee of the Common Council of 1852, composed (on the part of the Board of Aldermen) of Wm. H. Cornell, Wesley Smith, Wm. H. Brisley, Wm. M. Tweed, James M. Bard, T. L. H. Ward, John Boyce, and Richard T. Compton. But they had yet to learn, in their recent investigation, that the coffin which contained the hallowed corpse of Henry Clay was actually robbed of its pall, and that the Governor's Room and Aldermanic Chamber were also desecrated by a desperate gang of ruffians, who ruthlessly stripped and purloined the funeral drapery with which they were decorated on that profoundly solemn and most painful occasion. The following is the evidence respecting an outrage that will elicit tears from those who truly loved the great and departed American, and at the same time arouse the withering scorn of the whole American people.

[We have waded through this evidence, but as it really does not throw any light on the whereabouts of that black cloth, we will not burden our readers with it, assuring them that if we did it would not help in the least "the judgment of the civilized world," to which the Committee turns over the evidence of Mr. MATSELL's connection with "this inhuman affair."]

The report proceeds:

From the returns which the Committee have received thus far, they think there must be at least 600 foreigners in the Police Department against the 431 as returned by Mr. Matsell; that there are more than 100 in the Police Department who have been in prison, (some for crimes of the gravest character) against 30 as returned by Mr. Matsell; that the First Ward returned none as having been in prison, when, on examining about 15 policemen of the First Ward, three were found to have been old convicts. None were returned by Mr. Matsell as having been in prison, in the Sixth Ward, which is considered one of the worst Wards in the City. But from the best information the Committee could obtain there have been between eight and ten policemen in prison from the Sixth Ward. So with the Second Ward, Fourth Ward and Fourteenth Ward. One of the present policemen of the Second Ward made his escape from Blackwell's Island, and was appointed on the police before his time had expired on Blackwell's Island. One policeman, in full uniform, has been naturalized since your resolution of inquiry was adopted, he having been a policeman some time before his naturalization. There are many desperate convicts in the Police Department, about whom the Committee could not definitely report, in consequence of the haste with which they were compelled to report, caused by those who are striving to discharge your Committee.

Drs. A. S. Jones, N. C. Husted and P. W. McDonald, (Physicians of the Police Department,) were examined, but nothing important was elicited. They were far too cunning for the Committee. One of them did not respond to the subpœna, and the Committee learned that he was returned to the Board as never having been in Prison, when, in fact, he was tried for his life some time since, for murder.

[Evidence is here presented intended to prove corruption on the part of Mr. MATSELL, Mr. MCKELLAR, his clerk, and Capt. LEONARD, in relation to certain appointments and removals of Policemen, the dog pound, &c., &c. Such as it is, it is ex parte, and by no means conclusive, but rather stupid than otherwise. The Committee recommended that Capt. LEONARD be tried by the Police Commissioners, and turn MATSELL and his clerk, over to the Board and the public.] The following is choice:

Several of the fourteen Policemen were examined, who refused, according to Mr. MATSELL's Report, to answer the resolution of the Board; some said they had not been questioned in regard to the subject until they came before the Committee, some said that they had been in prison, &c., but very little information could be obtained from them, they having been long on the Police, and had doubtless been thoroughly drilled as to how they should answer questions before they came before the Committee.

[Chief MATSELL seems to be a good drill officer at all events.]

After piling up considerable testimony certifying the good character of Wm. H. Bedell, a principal witness for the prosecution, the Committee conclude their report as follows:

The Committee asked Mr. Matsell several questions respecting about 150 names he is now supposed to have of wealthy gentlemen, who have had business with the devil incarnate, who resided in Greenwich-street, near Dey-street. The Committee did not offend the gentlemanly reporters of the press who were present, with the mention of her name, and hence the Chief easily evaded their questions. But the Committee sincerely believe that Mr. Matsell knew whom they meant; but lest he [illegible] the Committee now inform him and the whole City, that they mean the odious Madame Restell. If the Committee is not discharged, they will probe this [illegible] and [illegible] Mr. Matsell if he has not [illegible] the persons above alluded to, [illegible] to substantiate this startling fact.

The Committee has received a large number of letters from [illegible] City and country [illegible] the matters before them for consideration. But their report is already so voluminous that they have room only for a brief extract from one of the letters in question, which they hereby transmit for your consideration, and without comment on their part:

Alderman BRIGGS—Dear Sir: I see by the reports of the DAILY TIMES that you are trying to hunt up some of the corruptions of the Police system. Now, I happen to be an old hand at that bellows, and could give you some valuable information which I have treasured up since Matsell and others were perpetrating injustice at the Tombs. The matters I would confide to you are very curious, and ought to be brought up—the more especially as one of the witnesses to prove them is an Alderman of this City and the Editor of a Sunday paper. A suit was brought against Matsell at the time, but the lawyer employed by the injured party was bought up by a fat office, and sent out of the City, in order to stop the exposure. If this is worthy of your attention, I can, at your request, give you a clue to it.

Then follows the real name and address of the author, who is a very respectable citizen, and well-known as such in this community. JOHN H. BRIGGS, Chairman.

Alderman BAIRD moved to suspend the reading of the report, and that the same be laid on the table and ordered to be printed, which was carried.

Alderman HERRICK asked if the Committee were considered as discharged.

Alderman BAIRD said that to discharge the Committee was included in his motion.

The President stated that he did not so understand the motion, and that he did not so put it to the Board.

Alderman WILLIAMSON remarked that he could see no need of such specification. The Committee had made their report and—

Alderman ELY—The Committee have submitted only a partial report.

Alderman HERRICK moved to discharge the Committee.

Alderman BRIGGS said he hoped the Committee would be continued. The subject was still dark, and important matters were about to be brought to light. An attempt was made at the last meeting to put down the investigation. He had submitted the partial report that the public might see for themselves the facts of the case, should the Committee be discharged.

Alderman C. H. TUCKER thought it best to continue the investigation until the Register of the Parish where Mr. Matsell was born could be brought before them and examined, which the Committee hoped to effect on the arrival of the next steamer. This record produced, would settle the matter at issue beyond dispute.

Alderman WILLIAMSON said that he would repeat what he stated at the last meeting of the Board, that he had no other reasons for opposition to the investigation of the Special Committee other than that he believed the investigation was bringing the Board into ridicule. He knew nothing of the proceedings of that Committee only by the reports in the newspapers. The public voice, he believed, was against the present procedure. It was generally denominated a farce, and he did not believe the American party would endorse the course of the Committee. He hoped not on Mr. Matsell's account only, but for the credit of the Board, that the Committee would be discharged.

Alderman ELY—He could not understand why the Alderman of the Second should wish to have the investigation end, when it was distinctly announced that the report was only a partial one. The public, he believed, were looking for the report in full, and wished its appearance. As to its bringing ridicule upon the Board, that was a matter of minor consideration if important and vital facts were elicited in the inquiry. The Committee were certainly in the pursuit of knowledge under difficulties, but it was evident from the remark of the Chairman of that Committee, that they were approximating to something tangible. He believed that beneath this bag of meal there was a big cat, and that cat might turn out to be a nigger. He would reiterate his suggestion that the Committee be be not discharged, but pursue their examination till finished.

The question being taken, the motion was lost by a vote of 7 to 12.

Alderman WILLIAMSON moved to refer the report back to the Committee for completion.

It was announced that that could not be done, as the vote ordering to print could not be reconsidered.

The Counterfeiters Bailed.

The six men and women who were arrested a few days ago, charged with counterfeiting $5 and $10 notes on the Chemical Bank, New-York, and issues on several Southern Banks, were duly examined yesterday at the Second District Police Court, Justice PEARCY, who held the prisoners to bail in the sum of $1,000 each, for trial at the Court of General Sessions.

Board of Aldermen.....MONDAY, April 23.

Isaac O. Barker, Esq., President, in the Chair.

PETITIONS REFERRED.

Correction.

To the Editor of the New-York Daily Times:

SIR: Your caption to the letter addressed by the Committee of the Liquor Dealers' Society to Mr. Tomlinson states that we denounced the action of the Mayor in regard to the "Cyprians."

The term "Cyprians" does not appear in the letter, nor is there anything therein contained which can be tortured into an allusion to them; and consequently that statement is not warranted by fact or inference.

You will please publish this contradiction, and oblige one of the Committee. Yours, &c., N. E. BUNCE.

UNITED STATES CIRCUIT COURT.—April 23.

Before Judge Betts.

In the case of Ross Williams vs. the Harlem Railroad Company. The plaintiff had laid a regular track on the floor of the Court room, showing a curved track on which they proposed this morning, to run trucks, which had been brought on from Baltimore, in the presence of the Court. It was suggested that they probably thought by this means more easily to "carry the jury." Judge Betts however having informed the parties that the case must be brought to a close this week, it was determined not to use this model. The testimony in the case will therefore be closed to-morrow, when Mr. Whiting will commence summing up for the defence.

Two of these men are seriously wounded, and one, Harris, lies in a precarious state at the City Hospital. No day was named for the examination.

COURT OF OYER AND TERMINER.

Before Hon. Judge S. P. Cowles.

PLEA OF GUILTY.

The People vs. Edward Allen.—In this case the prisoner, a lad of 15 years of age, was charged with murder in killing Patrick Quinn, on the 5th November last, at a house in Anthony-street. The prisoner stated on his examination that he was a native of this City, and had never known the deceased, but hearing that he was charged with the killing of Quinn, he, (prisoner,) gave himself up to the Coroner. The District Attorney stated that the probability was, that a verdict of manslaughter in the fourth degree would be the result of a trial of the case, and that after a consultation with the counsel for the prisoner, General Wright of New-Jersey, he, the District Attorney, had consented to receive a plea of guilty of that offence, and would hand up the papers for the information of the Court.

THE MAYFLOWER. By H. BEECHER STOWE. Boston: PHILLIPS, SAMPSON & Co.

The Mayflower was the title of a series of New-England sketches which were published years ago, when the writer's greatest reputation was owing to the facts that she was daughter of Dr. LYMAN BEECHER and wife of Prof. STOWE, of Cincinnati. Many of them were prepared for social literary parties in that city, and were published very widely, especially in the religious papers. Having been long out of print, they are, with additional papers of later date, here reproduced. They are written in Mrs. STOWE's best vein—lively, bold and picture-like. Her great reputation will not be sullied by such books. We are thankful for the large sale it is sure to command.

Terrible Accident—Boiler Explosion on the Propeller Oregon—Loss of Ten Lives.

From the Detroit Free Press.

The propeller Oregon left this city early yesterday morning for the St. Clair River, carrying, in addition to her own crew, the crews of the brig N. M. Standard and schooner Flying Cloud, which vessels wintered above. The total number of persons on board was twenty-five. At about 6½ o'clock, when near the head of Belle Isle, and close to the Canada shore, her boiler exploded with a tremendous noise, scattering death and destruction all around. The after part of the vessel was blown completely off, and sank almost instantaneously. Nine men were killed immediately, and several others were wounded—some quite seriously. Those of the crew saved clung to the bow of the vessel, and were taken off by small boats.

The Oregon was commanded by Capt. JOHN STEWART, who was leaning against the pilot-house when the explosion occurred. He was hurled high up in the air, and, as he descended, fell through the deck, breaking one of his legs and bruising his body considerably. Capt. GLAZIER, of the brig Standard, was also leaning against the pilot-house at the time, and was thrown some distance, but escaped with a sprained ankle and wrist.

The following are the names of the missing. None of the bodies have been recovered but that of Mr. CHAPMAN:

BELONGING TO THE OREGON—Wm. S. Chapman, 1st Engineer; John ——, 2d Engineer; Edward McBride, fireman; a colored man, (cook,) name unknown; Thos. Connelly, deck hand; a deck hand, name unknown.

BELONGING TO THE FLYING CLOUD—Alex. Hinkley, sailor.

The names of the saved are as follows:

BELONGING TO THE OREGON—John Stewart, Captain, leg broken; James Brown, 1st Mate, unhurt; George H. Rice, 2d Mate, one hand bruised, but not badly; Michael Champion, fireman, head bruised, but not seriously, Wm. Kelly, deck hand, unhurt.

BELONGING TO THE STANDARD—Capt. Glazier, ankle and wrist sprained; James Martin, Mate, unhurt; —— Coffinger, cook, leg broken, and otherwise badly injured; Wm. M. Bethune, sailor, unhurt; Christopher Keaval, sailor, leg broken and smashed, and head badly cut. The injured leg was amputated at the Hospital yesterday, and Keaval last night was doing well.

BELONGING TO THE FLYING CLOUD.—Capt. Gadsden, unhurt; G. C. Baldwin, Mate, head cut and bruised, but not seriously; John Smith, Steward, unhurt; Fernatus Freeley, leg broken; James Hawkins, unhurt.

Wm. Reeder was taken from the wreck alive, but died on the way to the Hospital.

All those who were badly injured were taken to the Hospital, except Capt. Stewart, who was conveyed to the Merchants' Exchange, and who is considered to be in a fair way towards recovering.

All the men, both of the propeller and of the two vessels, were shipped in Cleveland. The propeller was owned in that city by Capt. G. W. Jones, and was valued at $8,000. There is no insurance upon her, and she will, therefore, prove a total loss, as her hull is so shattered as to preclude the possibility of saving any portion of it. The engine was blown completely out of the boat, and now lies in a fragmentary condition, some distance from her, in the water.

The cause of the accident is supposed to have been a defect in the boiler.

An inquest was held during yesterday, by Wm. G. Hall, Coroner on the Canadian side, upon the body of WM. G. CHAPMAN, the First Engineer of the propeller, and a verdict rendered in accordance with the facts as above given. Mr. Hall, we are requested to state, will keep the body until 4 o'clock this afternoon, when he will cause it to be interred. Mr. H. has in his possession a watch and $10 taken from the body; also, a number of articles picked out of the water, which can be obtained by the proper parties, upon application to him.

MONDAY, April 23—P. M.

The Official Bank Averages, which we advertise on another page, to Saturday, 21st April, exhibit a decline in all the departments of Loans, Specie and Deposits, of about half a million each. The movement is the most consistent we have had for many weeks, and the reduction in the Specie reserve quite moderate considering the heavy export of the week to Europe. The exact changes from the previous report are:

Decrease of Loans....$507,486
Loss of Specie....535,862
Decrease of Deposits....537,295

Including the Sub-Treasury statement of Saturday afternoon, the following is the general

COMPARATIVE RECAPITULATION.

	Dec. 30.	April 14.	April 21.
Loans	$81,653,637	$94,140,379	$93,632,893
Specie	12,076,147	14,800,903	14,265,041
Circulation	7,075,880	7,523,154	7,510,194
Deposits	63,928,030	77,282,216	76,744,921
In Sub-Treasury	[illegible]	2,145,598	2,537,094

The Sub-Treasury to-day sent $300,000 in gold to Norfolk, where large disbursements are being made by the Government for the Navy Department. The regular balance, after the business of the day, is reduced to $2,102,753; a sum which which will probably soon be replenished from Boston or St. Louis, at both of which points the Treasury accumulations are much beyond the wants of the department in New England or the West. The banks and bullion brokers have received orders to put up about $470,000 in coin to go to Boston for export by Wednesday's Cunarder. The market is now bare of ingots, but should the California arrive in season, the shipment from Boston may be considerably increased.

We do not find that the private mails by the Nashville brought many orders to purchase American Stocks. The tone of the letters, however, in regard to confidence in Money and Railway affairs on this side, is highly satisfactory. The Bankers and Brokers in the American Stock line in London and in some of the German cities, were making very favorable sales. Their prices, however, were not up to the latest figures from New-York. Our own market to-day was a good one on the Bond list, in the amount of sales, and for State Stocks prices were ½@1 ⅌ cent. dearer, while Illinois Centrals, New-York Centrals and Eries were done at only a very small fraction over the sales of Saturday. The aggregate sales of Bonds amounted to $295,000, the heaviest operations being in Louisianas at 92, and Missouris at 93¼@93½. In Road shares there was an active business in Erie and Reading, the former closing 51½ ⅌ cent., a rise of 1½ ⅌ cent. since Saturday, and the latter at 86½, against 85½ on Saturday. New-York Central steady; Panama touched 100 cash, and Toledo sold freely at 75½@76, which is an advance of 1½@2 ⅌ cent. on the sales of last week. The general temper of the market at the close of the afternoon Board was that of firmness. The Bank Statements and moderate demand to-day for Foreign Exchange, as well as the cheapness and facility of borrowing Money on Stocks, are all calculated to assist the Bulls.

The circular of Messrs. MARIE & KANZ and the Stock list of to-day afford the following figures for some of the more prominent United States, State and Miscellaneous Securities, in the New-York market, which are dealt in on the other side:

U. States 6s of 1862	111½	New-York Central 7s	101½
U. States 6s of 1867-8	118½	New-York Central Shs.	94
U. S. 6s of 1868, Cou'n	118½	Erie new Bonds	87½
U. S. 5s of 1864, Texas	107½	Erie shares	51½
New-York 6s of 1867	111	Hudson 1st Mortgage	103

There have been private sales to Foreign account during the week, say DECOPPET & Co., of Milwaukee and Mississippi 8 ⅌ cent. First Mortgage, Terre Haute and Alton First Mortgage, Sacramento City Bonds, and St. Louis County.

The demands for Foreign bills for the Boston steamer is thus far quite moderate. More business may be done before the closing of the last mail to-morrow. The rates do not vary from the last packet; on London 109¾@110¼; France 5.13¾@5.11¼; transactions in the latter mostly at 5.12½. The terms on London, owing to the light supply of transient bills, are controlled by the leading Bankers. We heard of sales 3 days' sight at 110¾, and 60 days at 110¼. The amount offering on France is something larger than last week. Messrs. DE COPPET & Co. in their Continental circular of this date quote as follows:

On London....109¾@110¼
On Paris....5.11¼@5.12½
On Amsterdam....41½@41¾
On Frankfort....41½@41¾
On Bremen....79½@79¾
On Hamburg....36½@37
On Antwerp....5.12½@5.13¾

We have been requested to call the attention of the shareholders, both common and preferred, in the Harlem Railroad, to the fact that the annual election for Directors will take place on Monday, 15th May. It is thought desirable, in the present condition of the affairs of the Company, that every resident stockholder, at least, should attend and vote in person; that caution should be observed in giving new proxies to interested parties in advance of the election, and that every old proxy, voted upon for years under the old SCHUYLER rule, should be revoked before the day of election. If the latter be not attended to, these old proxies may be used directly after the opening of the polls, even in cases where the shareholders may design to attend in person later in the day. A good many old proxies, it will be remembered, were thus used last Fall, at another Railroad election where more than one ticket for Directors was run.

The Union Bank has made a half-yearly dividend of 4 ⅌ cent., and the Mechanics' and Traders' a half-yearly dividend of 7 ⅌ cent. The last payable on or after the 1st of May.

Mr. DRAPER holds his regular semi-weekly Auction Sale of Stocks at the Merchants' Exchange to-morrow, Tuesday, at 12½ o'clock. The catalogue embraces $100,000 in United States Mail Steamship Stock, and $20,000 Pacific Mail Steamship Stock.

Mr. ALBERT H. NICOLAY's regular semi-weekly auction sale of Stocks and Bonds did not take place yesterday, in consequence of Mr. NICOLAY's continued severe indisposition. Postponed to Thursday.

The regular day of sailing for the California steamers, via Panama, from San Francisco, the mails and treasure by which are now due at this port, was on the 1st of April, but being Sunday, it is probable she was delayed to Monday afternoon, which accounts for her non-arrival. Her advices are looked for with more than ordinary interest, owing to the very small amount of Gold brought by the last arrival, via Nicaragua.

The March earnings of twenty-two Railroads, the official returns from which have been received, amount:

In March, 1855, to....$3,[illegible]
Same month 1854, to....2,[illegible]
Increase equal to 24½ ⅌ cent....$[illegible]

Three lines are included in the above for March, 1855, together, $165,573, which made no return in March, 1854. The Illinois Central, opened in January last, is of the number. The earnings of the line, $81,400.
